Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Power of Publicity Is Greatest Propelling Force in World

THE power of publicity is one of the greatest powers controlled by man. No one can correctly gauge its influence. Even the part it took in the World War went a long ways towards the winning of it.

What would this country have done without the success of the Liberty Loan drives? This success was made possible through publicity.

The greatest medium of publicity, especially in this country, is the press. It only takes a few hours to tell an important event to all citizens who are anywhere reachable by civilization.

* * *

THROUGH the newsgathering and distributing organization of the different news agencies the nations of the entire world are brought into daily contact and through the aid of these agencies should be, and undoubtedly are, more friendly.

One of the most perplexing problems the editor of a newspaper has to deal with is to distinguish the difference between propaganda and news. As an agency to distribute news of interest to readers he must be conscientious in the selection of what is proper. Never a day passes in which a newspaper is not requested and urged to boost propositions of which are not legitimate and therefore unworthy of support.

* * *

COMMUNITY advertising is the greatest builder of cities but this advertising must be of the proper kind.

A demonstration of this is now being given at Shelby, Montana, where the Dempsey-Gibbons prize fight is to be held. The citizens of Shelby bid for the fight as an effort to put themselves before the world as an oil center.

The results they are obtaining however are considerably different. They are being nationally advertised as a center of gambling, booze running and kindred vices. Crooks of all kinds are attracted by the publicity and when all is over the citizens of Shelby will find that any publicity they gained through the fight medium was of the wrong sort and not of a permanent beneficial nature.

* * *

WE are not writing this article to boost our advertising columns for they have this to prove by the results they gain for the advertiser. We do think that if advertisers gave more thought to the agencies they use for telling their story to the people their expense column would be shorter and the profit column correspondingly longer.

Advertising value is based on telling your story to the greatest number of people and telling it to them consistently enough so that they will remember it.

LAST evening a group of citizens appeared before the Glendale City Council to request them to repeal the present dog ordinance. The mayor advised if they would make a written request it would be given consideration.

It would be well for our peace of mind if something of a definite nature was accomplished in regard to a reasonable dog ordinance. A forward step, however, is to be taken tonight in the formation of a Dog Protective association, which is to be realized at a mass meeting. The meeting is to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the High School Auditorium and a large crowd of dog lovers will undoubtedly be present.

* * *

THE present ordinance is one that the officials have no desire to enforce. Its provisions are too drastic. Under these conditions it should be repealed. If all laws such as these were repealed it would be less difficult to enforce those remaining.

ARTHUR BENT MAY BE COMMENCEMENT ORATOR AT HIGH

Not until this afternoon will it be known with certainty who will be the curator at the commencement exercises of seniors of Glendale High next Thursday evening, but at this writing it is probable that the speaker will be Arthur Bent, president of the Contractors' association of Los Angeles and past president of The Allied Contractors of the United States, a man of affairs and a good talker.

BOOTLEGGER IS FINED $50

John Valentine of Glendale, who was arrested on Tuesday for attempting to sell liquor to A. Baines of 312 East Broadway, appeared before Judge Lowe yesterday and was fined $50, according to the police record.

HI HONOR PINS ARE BESTOWED

Gold Tokens Distributed at First Session of Seniors

GIRLS GET LETTERS

Debating Pins Go to Four Orators of the Year

Some time ago announcement was made of high school students to whom honor pins had been awarded. Thursday afternoon they were bestowed at three crowded assemblies.

At each one some special feature was introduced by Mrs. George U. Moyse, vice principal, who made the presentations with brief but gracious speeches fitting the occasion and expressive of appreciation of the faithful work of recipients and their loyalty to the school.

At the first assembly gold pins were bestowed upon seniors. Also letters were presented to girls who had qualified in athletics, and Coach Hayhurst read the names of boys who had likewise earned them in athletics, the pins having already been presented in class.

At the second assembly Miss Corry and Mr. Brewster were upon the platform and after the bronze and silver emblems of honor had been bestowed by Mrs. Moyse, Miss Corry presented to the school, the banner for the championship in the Central Debating league won by Betty Higgins and Paul Cunningham, to whom she paid warm tributes of praise crediting Betty who had served as debating commissioner, with a perfect score in her first debate. With Paul Cunningham elected as the next debating commissioner, she predicted big things for the next semester.

For Mr. Brewster was reserved the honor of presenting the debating pins of silver to Betty Higgins, Isabel Tousey, Paul Cunningham

PARK AVENUE WIDENING IS PROTESTED

Object to Combining of Assessment Districts

Several protests were received last night to the combining of the assessment districts for the opening and widening of Park avenue from Central avenue to the Southern Pacific tracks, and for the opening of that street from Adams street eastward. The contention of the protestants was that these improvement projects should not be brought up in the one procedure, as there is considerable territory between the locations of the two proposed pieces of work.

The owners of property on Park between Central to the S. P. tracks are mostly opposed to the opening and widening proceedings, it was stated, and they believe that if these were submitted seperately they would be able to protest them out, in fact, that 90 per cent of the property owners effected are against the proposed work.

City Engineer Dupuy stated that the two were combined and the stretch between the two pieces of work included because the connecting property would be directly benefited by the improvement work and therefore should help to pay for the expense.

At this meeting map of tract No. 5716 was accepted.

In the matter of the opening of Adams street north, the city engineer was instructed to change the assessment district as agreed upon and to bring in a revised ordinance at the next meeting.

A letter was received from the Glendale Realty board asking that the electric signs that are located at Brand and San Fernando and Broadway and San Fernando be placed at the extreme southern and northern limits of the city, as they are misleading in their present locations. The council took this matter under advisement.

A communication asking the council to request the state railroad commission to establish grade crossings on the Pacific Electric line at Concord and Gilbert streets was received and the matter was referred to the committee of the whole.

On request of J. R. Detwiler, the city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance regulating camping grounds in Glendale.

The Nazarene church was granted permission to erect a large tent for special meetings at the corner

286 MEMBERS ARE SECURED BY THE C. OF C. DRIVE

$8,930 Donated to the Service Fund of Organization

By BERT MARPLE

The chamber of commerce advancement campaign went over the top today with 286 new members for that organization and donations of $8,930 for the service fund. The new members reported today, a total of 78, were divided as follows: Blues, A. L. Baird, captain, 46; Reds, Ed Radke, captain, 32.

The number of members received during the campaign bring the membership up to 984. Of the new members secured 170 are credited to the blues, and 116 to the reds. During the campaign $16,005 was received, $7150 of this being in memberships and $8,930 subscriptions to the service fund. Of the latter amount, $5930 was reported today.

When the different amounts to the service fund and the new members to the chamber were announced the crowd of about 60 workers went wild. Time and time again cheers were given for the different teams, the biggest hearted good fellowship reigning during the entire time of the closing meeting.

Following is the result for the campaign, as far as tabulated.

For the blues, captained by A. L. Baird: Members secured, 170; points, 14,412; amount collected, $1267.75; total service fund, $4830.

The individual blue captains' scores were as follows: H. L. Finley, 12 members, 1132 points; T. W. Watson, 18 members, 1540 points; Don Webb, 35 members, 1798 points; John Swearingin, 21 members, 1728 points; J. C. Smith, 13 members, 1490 points; S. W. Brown, 15 members, 1490 points; Val Hollister, 18 members, 1253 points; Henry Kuhn, 15 members, 2351 points; Peter Ferry, 21 members, 1796 points. Henry Kuhn's team was the high aggregation of the blues.

Following are the returns of the red—Ed N. Radke, captain: total 116 members, 8394 points; total amount collected, $1,101.25.

Individual captain scores of the reds were as follows: Arthur Campbell, 30 members, 1731 points; W. P. Potter, 18 members, 895 points; J. M. Wilson, 22 members, 1061 points; Herman Nelson, 10 members, 1145 points; Captain Towman 3 members, 200 points; R. W. Jessue, 4 members, 505 points; Lyman P. Clark, 6 members, 998 points; W. B. Howard, 23 members, 1903 points.

MOLAY SPORT DANCE PLANS COMPLETED

Final plans for the sport dance to be given tomorrow evening were completed last night by the Glendale chapter, Order of De Molay. The affair will be staged at the Masonic Temple. Tickets are $1 per couple, and may be obtained from any De Molay or at the door. Sport attire will be the order of the day.

Appointive officers for the ensuing term were announced at the meeting by the master councilor elect, Paul O. Morgan. They will include: Ira Cleeland, senior deacon; La Verne Fletcher, junior deacon; Jack Wright, senior steward; Rudolph Herman, junior steward; David Lynd, chaplain; Emroy Heffington, marshal; Wesley Goodfellow, almoner; Hiram Cox, standard bearer; Owen Miles, sentinel; Francis Read, orator; Thomas Wood, Howard Brummell, Harold Jones, Glenn Roberts, Livingston Thom, Ervin Carver and John Judd, preceptors. The elective officers, in addition to the master councilor, are Allen Pollock, senior councilor; Valentine Hollingsworth, junior councilor; Frank Balthis, scribe, and Wilfred Cline, treasurer.

These officers will be installed on June 28. Francis Read, retiring master councilor, will be installing officer. He will be assisted by James Thomson, past master councilor of the chapter. At this time the De Molay degree will be conferred on the five candidates who received the initiatory degree last night.

Announcement was made last night of the Southern California De Molay conclave to be held in Los Angeles next Wednesday. Frank S. Land, grand scribe, will be the guest of honor. A business meeting, a parade, and a reception to the grand scribe will constitute the proceedings.

DR. STUART REPORTS TO ADVANCEMENT FOLKS ON EAST SIDE POSTOFFICE

Declares No Application for East Side Contract Postoffice Is on File in Washington; Correspondence Lost Somewhere in Official Channels

POSTMASTER JACKSON'S EXPLANATION

Report Commends Upon Reception of Proposition for Joint Meeting of All Interested in Selection of a Location for the Branch

Doubtless because of the chamber of commerce drive, in which so many men are working, the attendance at the regular weekly meeting of the Advancement association held Thursday noon, was not as large as usual.

The chief reports concerned applications for contract post office for the east side which Dr. Charles Stuart had filed, and the status of the Los Angeles franchise for the Glendale Montrose railroad.

The post office report was made by Dr. Stuart, a member of the committee, who informed the association that according to Congressman Lineberger no application for a contract office is on file in Washington. Postmaster D. R. Jackson when interviewed concerning the matter, admitted the fact. He also admitted that though he had written the department in January and again in February and at other times, concerning the matter, no answer had been received to his communications and the only inference to be drawn was that the application made by Dr. Stuart, which Postmaster Jackson says he indorsed, together with all correspondence, have been lost in Washington.

The case seems the more singular because, according to the postmaster, the department reposes the utmost trust in him and has given him powers extraordinary in the determining of the needs of the enlarged Glendale post office. He assured Dr. Stuart that Glendale is no longer a small town and it makes little difference where the main post office is located in view of his intention to locate smaller contract offices in various parts of the city, one in the north, probably in Webb's store, one in the Tropico section and one in the east part of town, the site for the big post office going to the lowest bidder. Dr. Stuart said it was a question in his mind whether it would not be well for the east Glendale business men to make no opposition to the locating of the main post office in Harry White's building on South Brand, where it had been suggested it would go, and then try for a real branch post office on the east side.

Dr. Stuart also reported that bids for the enlarged post office would be opened July 5 and that the chamber of commerce had voted funds to send Secretary Sanders and assistant postmaster Hallett to a post office convention to be held in San Francisco June 28, that they may learn all possible about the equipment required for a really first class post office.

Dr. Stuart likewise commented on the lukewarm reception given his proposition to call a joint meeting of all the various interests and section of the city to endeavor to locate the postoffice at a point convenient to the greater number in the interests of harmony. He had presented it, he said, to George Karr, chairman of the civics committee of the chamber and to Roy Kent, chairman of the chamber's post office committee, both of whom were non-committal.

Reports corcerning the hotel at Glendale and Broadway, the ornamental lighting of Glendale avenue and Broadway, the paving of Glendale avenue, were all very favorable.

Concerning the transfer franchise from the Los Angeles city council for the lack of which actual work on the electrifying of the Glendale-Montrose railroad extension on Glendale avenue is being held up, Secretary Nelson read a letter from Attorney C. L. McFarland who is handling the matter for the railroad, stating that in his opinion the delay is merely caused by the usual official red tape which in this case is augmented by the fact that the applications have to pass through two bodies, the board of public work and the Los Angeles city council. He predicted early and favorable action. Mayor Robinson, who was a luncheon guest, said it was his understanding that the matter was coming before the Los Angeles city council next Monday morning and City Manager Reeves has been asked to be present to represent the Glendale city government.

J. C. Sipple was introduced by Mr. Kirch as a new member.

VALLEY ROAD FOLKS LEARN OF LIGHTS

City Engineer Explains Rebate Due to Owners

The matter of the assessments for street lights on San Fernando road was brought up before the city council Thursday night by several of the property owners along that thoroughfare, who wanted to know how it was that they are being assessed $3 per front foot when the contract for lights amounted to $2.40 per front foot.

The situation was explained by City Engineer Dupuy as follows The city's estimate, including two years' maintenance was $3 per front foot. The lowest bid for the work was for $2.40 per foot, this not including the two-years maintenance. The amount between the contract price and the costs to the city of putting the work through and the $3 assessment price, will be returned to the property owners in the form of a rebate. City Attorney Morrow stated that this rebate has been provided for in the proceedings.

At the last municipal election the residents of Glendale voted to pay the cost of ornamental lights out of the general fund of the city. The costs for electricity for the San Fernando lights, therefore, cannot be assessed to the property along that thoroughfare, but will come out of the general fund.

Just when this rebate will be made to the San Fernando owners is not known, the city attorney having not decided whether or not this can be paid immediately or whether payment must be held up for two years.

NEWTON ELECTRIC WINS FROM STANDARD OIL

Thursday night the Newton Electric company's baseball team played the Standard Oil team on Moyse Field and won with a score of 39 to 17.

Tonight the Christian church team plays the Post Office team.

DOG PROTECTIVE FOLKS APPEAR AT CITY HALL

Ask That the Present Ordinance Be Eliminated

Representatives of the Dog Protective association of Glendale appeared before the city council Thursday night and asked that something be done toward repealing the present dog ordinance, which has been in force for several months.

They were informed by Mayor Robinson that if the association would bring in a written request with regard to the ordinance the council would give the communication consideration.

"We wrangled over this matter for two or three hours a few nights ago," said Mayor Robinson, "and the farther we went the less we knew. At that meeting there were not half a dozen people who agreed on any one thing. One wanted one thing, one another.

"The thing for you to do is to fight this thing out among yourselves, decide what you want, and make your recommendations in writing to the council. We haven't any time to give tonight to discussing this matter."

RAINFALL IS .11 OF AN INCH TODAY

According to the rain gauge at the T. W. Preston residence at 330 North Jackson street the rainfall for today's storm amounted to .11 of an inch. This brings the rainfall for the season to 13.27 inches as against 28.83 at this time last year.

VENICE MAN LOSES HIS AUTO IN CITY

An automobile belonging to A. F. Williams, 542 Brooks avenue, Venice, was stolen from in front of the Glendale theatre at about 10 o'clock last night. No trace of the missing machine has yet been found.

TABLEAU MARKS ELKS' FLAG DAY CELEBRATION

Given Under Direction of L. W. Chobe by Mrs. Dibbern, Mrs. Mackey

The annual observance of flag day was held last night by the Glendale lodge of Elks when a program was given at the local club house attended by 450 members and friends. This was preceded by a band concert given on the north veranda of the club home. This annual event proved to be the most successful of its kind given by the Glendale lodge and the varied program was most interesting.

Community singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" opened the program, which was followed by the introductory exercises conducted by Exalted Ruler James Apffel and the other officers of the lodge, who exemplified the ritualistic work in connection with the observation of flag day, including the forming of the Liberty Bell. William Hunter, chaplain of the lodge, led in prayer.

A beautiful tableau, "The Birth of the Flag," symbolizing the scene in which Betty Ross conferred with George Washington as to the original flag, and showing the flag with the thirteen stars in a circle on a blue field, was given under the direction of L. W. Chobe by Mrs. Arthur Dibbern and Mrs. J. W. Mackey. Thena Fultz and Edwin J. Albright were in excellent voice in their singing of "Flag of Freedom" (Combs).

Esteemed Lecturing Knight J. F. McBryde gave the history of the flag. Miss Thena Fultz gave a vocal solo, "My Own United States." The customary altar service was conducted by the esquire and officers of the lodge. This was followed by a medley of patriotic airs by the orchestra and the singing of "Your Flag and My Flag" (Ryder) by Edwin J. Albright.

Will H. Anderson of Santa Monica lodge No. 906, B. P. O. E., gave the patriotic address, his topic being "The Flag and What It Symbolizes." The program closed with the singing of "America." Louis A. Kerwin did some very excellent work as piano accompanist for the vocal soloists of the evening.

At the next regular meeting of the Glendale lodge of Elks on Monday night there will be balloting on ten applications for membership, which if received favorably will be initiated by the Pasadena degree team at the meeting on June 25.

The next regular lodge dance, which will be the last of the season, will take place at the club house on Saturday, June 23.

HERBERT SMITH PRESIDES AT ROTARY CLUB

President George Karr Is at the International Convention

In the absence of George Karr, president, the regular noonday meeting of the Glendale Rotary club, held yesterday in the auditorium of the Citizens' building, was in charge of Herbert Smith, vice-president. President George Karr, Roy Kent and J. I. Wernette left recently to attend the international convention to be held in St. Louis.

Owen Emery led in community singing in the absence of France Henry, regular song leader of the club. Among the visiting Rotarians were D. B. VanDerlip of Inglewood; Herbert McDonald of Mobile, Ala.; Edgar Westover of Portland, Ore.

A letter from Roy Kent was read, in which he reported that the Boy Scout camp at Haynes canyon was assured, as the canyon property had been purchased by the club. The meeting then adjourned and the members joined in the Chamber of Commerce meeting, which was also being held in the auditorium.

NEW MISSIONARY ALLIANCE CHURCH OPENS TONIGHT

Two Hundred Expected to Attend Initial Services of Prayer

The fine new structure to be known as the Gospel Tabernacle Church of Christ and of the Missionary Alliance which has been under construction at Louise and Chestnut since January 2, is now completed, and the initial services were held last night, when Rev. S. H. Chrismas led a night of prayer, with more than two hundred members of the church present.

The new church was built at a cost of $40,000 and will seat 1250 people. It is classed as one of the prettiest structures in Glendale, embodying the Spanish mission style.

Beginning Sunday a week of evangelistic services are to be held at the Gospel Tabernacle. Rev. L. B. Compton, who formerly conducted a series of services, has been secured to make a return engagement. He comes from Ashville, North Carolina, and is known as the mountaineer evangelist.

He brings with him Charles Donlo, commonly known as "Uncle Charlie," the children's friend, who is said to be an expert in conducting children's work during such a campaign. Services will be held every afternoon and evening of next week, and morning, afternoon and evening, Sunday, beginning June 17 and closing June 24.

GLENDALE GIRLS WANT GOOD DANCE

So Decided at Community Service Dinner at Clubhouse

IS SET FOR JUNE 28

An Atmosphere of Good Fellowship Is Developed

While the dinner served at the Tuesday Afternoon club house Thursday evening for the young women of the city for the special purpose of learning their outstanding desires in the recreation line was not as well attended by girls as leaders had hoped it would be, enough were present to form the nucleus of a committee which will proceed to work out details for a dinner-dance to be given June 28 at the club house.

When there was a call for an expression of the use which should be made of the generous offer of the Tuesday Afternoon club of its banquet room and palm room one night a week, the girls promptly indicated a dinner dance as the wish of their hearts and that they would like it next week. But that was deemed too short a time to organize the matter and get invitations out, so the later date was fixed.

Reservations had been made for 75 and the dinner served by the club ladies under direction of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of ways and means, was a delicious meal.

The atmosphere to develop good fellowship was provided by Standard Oil orchestra players, secured by L. C. Smith, head of the Standard Oil in Glendale, who played a number of jazz selections in a very spirited manner, and who also provided the accompaniment for the good community singing led by Gage Christopher, the well-known leader of Los Angeles, who with his wife, was a guest. This part of the program opened with "America" and closed with "The Star Spangled Banner," and in between were a lot of the songs familiar to community singing audiences.

Other musical numbers which enlivened the program were solos by Miss Marie Oliver, who sang very beautifully "The Open Secret" (Woodman), and "I Passed by Your Window" (Bray), Mrs. Paul Webb serving as her accompanist.

J. A. Myers, a new-comer in Glendale, who has a very beautiful voice and who has enrolled as a Community Service booster, sang "Coming Home" (Charles Wilough-by), "The Message of the Violets" from the "Prince of Pilsen" and "The Sky Blue Waters" by Cadman.

Little Helen White, daughter of Superintendent and Mrs. Richardson D. White, whistled charmingly Greig's "To Spring" and an encore number, for which Miss Gladys Sharpe provided the piano accompaniment.

Mr. Tucker delivered the greetings of V. M. Hollister, chairman of the Community Service committee who was unable to be present, and then introduced the speakers, seated at the head table, beginning with Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the hostess club.

She declared this to be a very happy day for herself and the members of her board of directors, happy because it meant the realization of their strong desire in the building of a club home to provide a suitable amusement center for the young people of the city. She said: "We are thankful it is our privilege this year to offer a part in our home to the young men and the young women of Glendale one evening a week for pure, clean recreation. It would be a selfish thing not to want to share this beautiful place."

Mrs. Campbell then indicated the qualities of the best type of womanhood, the type that young men seek when looking for a wife, declaring it is not a handsome face, lovely eyes or beautiful hair but the more lasting attributes of a fine character indicated in the poem by Howard Arnold which she quoted in closing:

"I will be true, for there are those who trust me;
I will be pure, for there are those who care.
I will be strong, for there is much to suffer,
I will be brave, for there is much to dare.
I will be friend to all the friendless,
I will give and forget the gift.
I will be humble, for I know my weakness.
I will look up and laugh, and love, and lift."

"That," said Mrs. Campbell, "is one of the reasons why we have offered to you this club house that you might look up and laugh and love and lift."

Dr. C. M. Calderwood told of his

Pacific-Southwest Review

By HERMAN NELSON

Vice-President and Manager Glendale Avenue Branch
PACIFIC SOUTHWEST TRUST & SAVINGS BANK

HERMAN NELSON

What is thrift? What does it accomplish?

Thrift is generally interpreted to mean the saving of money. In reality it goes much further than that. It has been described by one prominent authority as "the psychological element rising out of the age-old necessity of man for reserving some of his current production for future use."

Thrift probably had its beginning when the savage man, finding it necessary to make preparations to withstand threatening famine or weather conditions adverse to hunting, realized the desirability of procuring more than enough food to take care of his immediate wants and guarding that surplus against the time of need. Today, to the average man, it is largely a matter of placing a proportion of earnings in savings accounts or investments. To be advantageous to the saver this kind of thrift must be systematic. A certain amount should be determined upon and that amount deposited with regularity. Occasional saving, with no definite objective in view, does not build a substantial or workable reserve.

Modern improvements of every kind owe their being to thrift. Railroads, highways, homes, manufacturing plants, steamships, and any other agency of production are the direct result of thrift. All these were built by means of funds saved by the people.

The progress of civilization itself depends upon the continued thrift of the citizenry of the various nations. Consequently, individual thrift is a community and national service, performed primarily for personal gain, but indirectly working a benefit to the entire country through the development of business and industry.

Ordinarily, an individual will not save enough from his current operations to be able to make loans to business concerns. It is only through the banks, which are able to gather the funds of a great number of savers, that a means is found of utilizing the funds of these individual savers for business development. The banks make individual savings work for the entire community through loaning them to worthy enterprises that are contributing to the development of the locality. From the profits on the funds banks are enabled to pay interest on savings accounts and, after the cost of operation is withdrawn, a dividend on the investment to its stockholders.

The owner of a modest savings account is apt to say, "I cannot see what good my little can do." Suppose he is saving no more than 10 cents a day, or three dollars a month. In a year that amounts to $36. If there are fifty thousand people in the community, each saving a similar amount, in a year there will be accumulated in the banks of the city $1,800,000—a fund large enough to carry on a very constructive work.

So, it may be seen, that in saving money the saver derives a three-fold benefit. The first is in the advantage to himself in the accumulation of money; for money is essential to the making of money in any quantity through investment. The second is in the interest paid by the bank on his savings, and the third is the indirect benefit that accrues to him through the increased prosperity of his community.

This is one of the reasons why the Glendale Branches of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank are particularly interested in the promotion of thrift in this community and in the handling of the savings accounts of Glendale people, no matter how small those accounts may be.

LA CRESCENTA 8TH GRADE IS GRADUATED

Friends, Relatives Witness Awarding of Diplomas at School

Friends and relatives of the members of the eighth grade graduating class of the La Crescenta school assembled at the school auditorium last night to witness the graduation exercises.

Twenty-one members, the entire class of 1923, received diplomas at the close of a splendid program given entirely by members of the class, including Mary Louise Mundy, Mary Ann Howard, Leland Mead, Dorothy Woolley, Frank Knapp, Della Dunlap, Lenore Lewis, Florence Leuer, Stuart Baron and Margaret Brown.

Mrs. Lillian Spratt Ashton, principal of the elementary school, presented the class to the president of the school board, H. A. Baldridge. Mr. Baldridge said, "You, the graduating class, I, as the representative of the board of trustees of the Crescenta school, congratulate upon your successful completion of the requirements of this school and as evidence of your graduation it is my duty and pleasure to present to you your diplomas."

Amid a profusion of flowers and the congratulations of many friends a most pleasant evening for the graduates of 1923 drew to a close.

WOULD DENY CITIZENSHIP TO SECOND GENERATION

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—An amendment to the constitution of the United States which would deny citizenship to children born of parents who are not eligible to citizenship will be proposed to the next congress by Albert Johnson and John E. GIRLS' LEAGUE ELECTION TODAY

For some reason not fully explained except that it was a default, the election of officers of the Girls' League of Glendale High, held Thursday, was declared null and void, and will be held over again today.

and Fred Deck, and a bronze pin for first participation to Charles Worley, Horace Anderson, Katherine McNary and Harold Majors, who were also entitled to pins, were not present.

Mr. Brewster explained the failure to win in the Southern California League as due in part in attempting too much without enough debating material to cover the ground. He predicted a much better opportunity for the school next year because of training of promising debaters the present year.

At the third assembly pins earned by students in the summer class of 1925, and for the mid-year of 1926 were presented, and special pins were given to the stage crew for good service as follows: James Gonzales, Willard Roberts, Floyd Kinnan, Horace Hosford and Robert Roach.

own exhuberant joy in boyhood which parents and instructors tried in vain and so often to curb that his name became "Charley Don't." Said he, "I often debated whether they were right or whether I was right, and now as I look back upon it, with all due respect for my parents, I believe I was right, and I would give much if I could have more of that boyhood spirit today. We need play. What we do when we enjoy what we are doing makes more of an impression upon us than what we do when we do not want to do it. When you are doing the thing that you enjoy and the right thing, you are building character and a good life. I am glad that you want to do things, that you feel life's forces struggling within you and want to give expression to them. That has always been my gospel. The young people of this town should have all the legitimate pleasures they want. If this committee can be of any service to you, we want to render it."

Mrs. J. R. Case, also a newcomer in Glendale from San Francisco, where she had charge of community service work following similar service in San Diego, was introduced by Mr. Tucker as the chairman of recreational activities for Glendale and she explained what the endeavor of the committee would be in carrying out the wishes of young men and women as soon as it could ascertain what those wishes were. Said she:

"There is something that we get through play or recreation that we do not get through study or anything else. We achieve a certain poise and command, a certain matching of wits which we cannot get from books, that will help us in any crisis in life. A good sport in a game is a good sport in life. We learn to play fair and to expect the other fellow to play fair and nine times out of ten it wins. I believe we should have hobbies that take us out of ourselves."

She then indicated in a general way the aim of the committee to provide leaders for all the recreational activities called for in response to the card of invitation sent out, and asked the young women present to say how and when they desired to make use of the offer of the Tuesday Afternoon club house for one evening a week, with the result already announced.

The other activities, tennis, hiking, etc., she said, will also be taken care of and announced as soon as arrangements are perfected.

By the time Mrs. Case had finished her little talk the audience was well warmed up and instantly responded to the leadership of Mrs. Campbell in singing—

"What's the matter with Mrs. Case?
She's all right!
She comes from our city,
She is wise and she is witty,
She is also very pretty.
What's the matter with Mrs. Case?
She's all right!"

In turn Mrs. Campbell, Mr. Tucker, Mr. Calderwood, Gage Christopher, J. A. Myers and Miss Myrtle Helmer, who is also a Community Service committee woman, were complimented in like manner.

MRS. TOLL TO BE HOSTESS TO THE READING CIRCLE

Final arrangements for the annual picnic of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle were completed at a meeting of the organization held yesterday at the library, in charge of Mrs. H. V. Henry, vice-president. Mrs. E. B. Moore led in the flag salute for Flag day. A review on "Overcrowding the Colleges (Edward Martin), was given by Mrs. R. C. Horner.

Mrs. A. A. Barton, president of the Circle, then took the chair. A letter was read from Mrs. H. Layer of Berkeley, who recently founded a new reading circle there along the same lines as the Glendale organization, expressing thanks for suggestions sent.

Mrs. R. C. Horner made the final report of arrangements for the picnic, which will be held June 20 at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Toll of Kenneth road, founder of the circle. Automobiles will meet the street cars at the end of the line from 10:30 to 12 o'clock. Luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock. Each active member is allowed to bring one guest. Tickets will be on sale at the picnic. Former members are especially urged to "come home to Mrs. Toll's" for the day. Phone Mrs. W. W. Stofft, Glendale 401-W, or Mrs. A. A. Barton, Glendale 1098.

Roll call was answered by quotations. Mrs. H. V. Henry read from the book, "Play and Education" (Lee), the chapters on "The Hunger for Reality," "The Skeptic" and "Big Injun Age."

GLENDALE CAT CLUB ENJOYS ITS PARTY

A very delightful evening was enjoyed by the thirty guests who attended the card party given last night at the home of Mrs. Wm. Hopkins, Jr., 659 North Central avenue, by Mrs. B. O. Holbrook and Mrs. F. S. Card for the benefit of the Glendale Cat Club. First prizes at "500" were awarded to Mrs. Goldthwaite of Glendale and Mr. Vanderhof of Pasadena. A special prize was awarded to Mrs. W. J. Farber.

Several harp selections were given by Mrs. Hopkins. Mrs. Pansy Sheldon delighted those present with several vocal seelctions. At the close of the evening delicious refreshments were served.

JUNE ROMANCE

MR. AND MRS. A. J. MAY ARE SHOWERED

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. May of 505 Porter street gave a reception at their home last night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. May who were married June 2.

A large group of friends and relatives gathered to make merry in honor of the newlyweds. Mrs. May, who was Miss Beulah Hock before her marriage, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hock of Central avenue. A. J. May is brother to the host.

Music furnished the entertainment of the evening, in addition to a charming dance given by little Mary Alice Barton who was among the guests. Refreshments of coffee, sandwiches, fruit salad, and cake were served. The rooms were prettily decorated in pink and white flowers, roses and daises having been chosen to carry out the color scheme.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Nicholson and sons Paul and Billy, and daughter, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Groebricle, Mrs. G. M. Barton and daughter Mary Ellen, Miss Nina Hock, Mrs. Wissman, the Misses Ida and Marjorie Hock, Ruth Elliott and Hilda May, Messrs. Richter, Burnelle, Gorrell, Leonard May, and Wesley Moore, and Mr. and Mrs. O. H. May and daughters, Pearl and Hazel.

NEW BRIDE IS GIVEN BIG SHOWER

Mrs. George E. Stanley, nee Miss Helen Engle, former bookkeeper for the Glendale board of education, was honored guest at a miscellaneous shower given at the home of Miss Myra Johns, 316 West Colorado Boulevard, Eagle Rock, last night.

The Therapaya club of Glendale gave the shower, 15 members being present. A large number of very lovely gifts were presented to the bride, who was wedded to George E. Stanley last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley plan to leave for Davis the first of August, as Mr. Stanley will attend the branch of the University of California there, this fall. Mr. Stanley is a member of the junior class.

MRS. PAULL SHOWS APPRECIATION OF SCHOOL WORK

Gives Picnic to Pacific Avenue Teachers and P.-T. A.

BY JENNIE SWENSON

Not often does there come such a practical exposition of the saying that one gets out of life just what he puts into it, as occurred yesterday, when a group of teachers of the Pacific avenue school and officers of the Pacific avenue P.-T. A. and their children, were the guests of Mrs. Woodroffe Paull of 316 Vine street, who was hostess and doner of a picnic, replete with surprises, prizes and good things to eat, at Brookside Park, Pasadena.

Mrs. Paull had arranged a bounteous luncheon, including chicken, salad, pickles, sandwiches of many varieties, ice cream, cake, and a host of other picnic appetizers. The table was appropriately decorated in red, white and blue, with a small silk flag for each one present, to remind them that June 14 is Flag Day.

A series of beautiful prizes were given to those drawing the lucky numbers. These prizes, which were also furnished by Mrs. Paull, were received most enthusiasticaliy by those fortunate enough to hold the numbers that were drawn. Miss Circle, one of the teachers at the school, won a handsome boudoir lamp. Two pair of polychrome candle sticks formed the second and third prizes and these were won by Mrs. Ralph Brown and Mrs. Laughlin. Mrs. Walter Jones won a beautiful silk lamp shade.

For each child there was a gift also. Every little girl received a pretty doll, and each boy a mouth organ, which each began to use immediately upon discovering its musical attributes.

And happiest among them all was Mrs. Paull, donor of the prizes and gifts, and hostess at the wonderful picnic lunch. "The teachers have made my little girl so happy this year, that I just wanted to do something to make them happy in return," said Mrs. Paull, in reference to her generous hospitality.

"When I was a child, I was not very happy at any time at school. My little girl, Edna Mae, who is just 9 years old, has enjoyed her school year so much, that I thought something ought to be done to show appreciation for the thoughtfulness on the part of the teachers and Parent-Teacher association workers, who have been largely responsible."

To say that the day was enjoyed would be needless, and deep in the hearts of the teachers who have tirelessly guided the footsteps of the younger generation into the pathways of learning, there was doubtless a subconscious satisfied feeling that someone had been found who knew the meaning of appreciation, for their eyes seemed a little brighter and their smiles a little cheerier, as they started on their way to "Home Sweet Home."

HI BOY SENIORS KIWANIS GUESTS AT LUNCHEON

Seventy-five boys of the senior class of Glendale high are today the guests of the Kiwanis club at their weekly luncheon and will be welcomed with an appropriate speech of greeting, Allan Pollock, the class president, making the response.

Bert Perry will be chairman of the day, Frank Fox will make a talk on "Business Standards," the invocation will be by Dr. Charles M. Calderwood, and the main address by Rev. Clifford A Cole.

Principal George U. Moyse, Earl Brown, Morgan Smith, and Irving Oliver, of the official staff of Glendale high, will also be guests.

R. E. Tucker, local Community Service executive, left this morning for Santa Ana, where he will attend the district conference of Community Service work, which will be held there Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week. The conference is open to all interested in community recreation work.

Mrs. Margaret Penland and son William and Mrs. Ferdinand Meiding and daughter Virginia, together with a number of former U. S. C. classmates, spent yesterday at Fullerton as guests of the Misses Helms.

MUSIC SECTION ENTERTAINED AT BELLE AIR

Christens Outdoor Dining room With Luncheon Party

Christening the outdoor dining room of "Belle-Air," the members and guests of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, of which Mrs. Warren Roberts is curator, enjoyed a most delightful luncheon party yesterday afternoon under the pepper trees in the garden of the home of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones on Kenneth road.

Most attractive table decorations had been aranged by Mrs. Wallace and the members of her committee. Baskets of spring flowers centered the tables, which were also decorated in nut baskets of green and gold, the club colors, and clever bouquets of candy flowers. A delicious three-course luncheon was served, which was preceded by the singing in unison of "America," led by Mrs. Frank Arnold.

Covers were laid for Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, Mrs. Warren Roberts, Miss France Goldwater, Gloria Bretherton, Mrs. Hazel Schertzinger Brewster, Mrs. H. Ewell Smith, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mary Malone, Mrs. E. W. Kinney, Mrs. A. Leighton, Mrs. A. R. Chappell, Mrs. James Henry Ballagh, Mrs. E. E. Osgood, Mrs. Wilbur E. Lee, Mrs. Colin Cable, Mrs. Wm. During the luncheon talks were given by Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the Los Angeles district federation of women's clubs and past president of the Tuesday Afternoon Club; Mrs. Daniel Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, who presented Mrs. Jones with a picture of the Big Trees as a memento of the recent convention at Eureka; Mrs. Fern Roberts, curator of the music section; Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, past president of the Los Angeles federation and also of the Tuesday Afternoon Club; Miss France Goldwater, manager for some of the most prominent musical artists and others.

Mrs. Warren Roberts announced that plans are being completed for the garden party, which will be in the form a card and dancing party, to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rattray on Kenneth road on June 27. She stated that out of courtesy to the music section the Shrine Club, which had planned a dancing party at the Rattray residence for June 26, had cancelled the date. The section programs for next club year were discussed, after which the guests adjourned to the drawing room of the Jones home, where a most delightful program was given, which had been arranged through the courtesy of Gloria Bretherton and Mrs. E. W. Kinney.

The program included vocal numbers by Mrs. A. Leighton, accompanied at the piano by Miss Malone, the numbers being arias from "La Tosca," "The Year at the Srping" and "Delight of the Out-of-Doors." Wyclif Taylor of the Pasadena Community Players read a group of modern poems, including one of his own called "The Desert," which was repeated by request. Mrs. Herbert Schertzinger Brewster gave two harp selections including her own composition "Serenade" and "Evening Star" from "Tannhauser." She also accompanied Mrs. Leighton, who sang "Phoebe Fair."

13 MONEY TO LOAN

2 MILLION DOLLARS OR ANY PART

TO ERECT ANY KIND OF INCOME BUILDING ON CLEAR LOT—

If you have clear lot, well located, worth $3500, to $4000—we will furnish all the money to erect a 4-flat building.

If your lot is worth approximately $10,000, we will furnish the money for a $30,000 to $40,000 apartment house, if location will warrant it.

Property remains in your name, and you have entire control under certain provisions, the details of which we shall be glad to give you upon request.

This proposition applys to Glendale and Los Angeles. The bigger the investment, the better we like it, and it is based upon location and value of your lot.

HIGH CABINET TURNS OVER ITS WORK

Annual Dinner Is Held Without Set Program

Thursday evening members of the cabinet of Glendale High held their annual dinner at which they surrendered their offices to incoming cabinet members. No program of speeches was prepared and the affair was a short function but none the less a pleasant one.

Stanley Johns, retiring president of student body, presented the gavel to Ronald West, incoming president, who responded with a suitable acknowledgement of the honor.

Cabinet pins bearing numerals signifying a full year's work were then presented to Isabel Tousey, Gordon Bartow, Leslie Lavelle, Catherine and Fred Stofft, Stanley Johns, and other pins indicating work for a single semester were bestowed upon Charlotte Winsel, Orrell Hester, Roma Staub, Bettie Higgins, Arden Gingery, Gladys Peckham and Dewey McCourt.

The dinner, prepared under the direction of Miss Ellen Hanson, head of the domestic science department, was served four of her students, Shirley Fawkes, Vera Whitcher, Rose Nelson and Fredericka Marshall.

The place cards were prepared by Orrell Hester, covers being laid for eighteen.

Protests Against Cerrotis Ave. S. P. Depot Registered

An echo of the Southern Pacific depot question was heard at the council meeting Thursday night. Several residents were present and registered additional protests against the station being located at Cerritos. When the question was asked how many protestants present lived more than three blocks from Eulalia street there was no response.

While the council has informally decided to locate the depot at Cerritos, no official action in the matter will be taken, the members of the council state, until early in July.

COLUMBUS AVE. P.-T. A. CLOSES

A luncheon party and fashion review marked the final meeting of the Columbus avenue Parent-Teacher association for this school year, which was held yesterday. Mrs. A. P. McBoyle was chairman in charge of arrangements for the dinner. The teachers, guests and outgoing and incoming officers were served at luncheon in the school cafeteria at 12:30 o'clock, after which the mothers were served. Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Glendale federation of Parent-Teacher associations; Mrs. E. B. Wyman and Mrs. Pierson Hanning, district officers, were among the guests present.

Mrs. C. H. Thompson, retiring president, who has served as leader for the organization for the past two years, was presented with a beautiful basket of flowers from the teachers and also one from the association in appreciation of her splendid work.

Mrs. C. H. Lyon of West Doran street had charge of a very unique fashion show which was put on by the little girls of the school, who had made dresses, aprons, etc., during the fashion parade. Prizes were awarded as follows: Dresses, first, Helen Anderson; second, Doris Hanna. Princess slips, Julia Benson. Shoe bag, Virginia Endicott. Holders, Louise Hanger. Aprons, Dorothea Ungheuer. The prizes were dress patterns which were donated by Mrs. Lyon.

An exhibition of sloyd work was held at Mrs. Lyon's store on Doran street and Edward Child was awarded first prize. Mrs. C. P. Tedford is the newly elected president of the Columbus avenue P.-T. A.

ARRESTED FOR HIS FAILURE TO APPEAR

Herman Royal, 1208½ East Thirty-third street, Los Angeles, was arrested by Officers Brewster and Baugh yesterday on a charge of failing to appear to answer to a charge of speeding, according to local police. He was endeavoring to secure bail for his own release today.

"BAVU," WIERD FILM, TO OPEN AT T. D. & L.

"Bavu" is an intriguing title and the Universal-Jewel picture of that name is said to be a wierd story, a mystery play of the most intense variety with more of the thrill element than is commonly found in one cinema drama.

"Bavu" comes to the T., D. & L. Theater for a showing commencing tonight. The players who will be seen in it are Estelle Taylor, Wallace Beery, Forrest Stanley, Sylvia Breamer, Nickolai de Ruiz, Martha Mattox, Josef Swickard, Harry Carter and Jack Rouens.

"Bavu" was an overnight sensation on the New York stage, written by Earl Carroll and produced as the first offering of the magnificent Earl Carroll theater. The adaptation and continuity were prepared by Raymond L. Schrock, scenario editor at Universal City, and Albert G. Kenyon, both of them screen writers of the first magnitude.

BURBANK HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS IN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Dr. Rufus von KleinSmid, President of Southern California University, Delivers Address to the Seniors and Their Friends

BURBANK, June 15.—The senior class of the Burbank high school, class of '23 was generous, indeed, to give to the public such a happy evening to remember as that one of their commencement exercises Thursday evening at the high school auditorium.

The setting for the occasion was very lovely. The stage lighting in jeweled art lamps, and the footlights behind a low, white picket fence, half hidden by greenry, with the class year, "1923" lit in the class colors of purple and gold as the focus of interest, was most effective.

The fortunate holders of complimentary tickets had assembled in time to admire the stage before the seniors, charming in their finery, marched in to take the attention. Others, not fortunate, lined up outside awaiting the portioning out of the few unclaimed seats.

Dr. Rufus von KleinSmid, who talks simply and with power, possessing a remarkable gift of expression, was the speaker of the evening. His subject was "The Future and I." With polished easy wit, he humorously sent his message to the mind and caught and held the attention of the crowded auditorium as only occasionally a public speaker is able to do.

In attempting to repeat any part of his address, a slave to the beauty of sparkling words, finds it impossible. The theme was to arouse each individual to a realization that life is given for a purpose. Each particular person has a destiny to fulfill, he reiterated.

With ingenious illustrations he continually returned to the heart of his talk, that life is given for a definite purpose and now is the time to dedicate yourself to the task ahead.

Beginning with the time when the baby grasps for the moon he traced the growth of the individual. The first school experience when the parents feel that the holy of holies has been invaded by a third person, the teacher, was described next showing how the budding instincts of later life begin to develop, in the first year of school life.

In illustrating this he told of his experience as a young child when his mother had forbidden him to go from home. He saw the flash of a gingham dress through the crack in the fence and he followed it. When he returned to his home he announced he had spent the afternoon with Barbara. His mother told him she would have to punish him for his disobedience and he said, "Lick away, mother, it was worth it,' and ever since that time he has always felt any punishment was worth an afternoon spent with that same Barbara.

The instinct of curiosity begins and the whole world is to be explored. This instinctive tendency to learn is later shown in the laboratory and the library. Then the speaker followed the life through to the sixteen years or more of working for this night of graduation. Now there must be a realization that life is given for a purpose; that there is a destiny to fulfill for each particular individual.

A wonderful picture of the splendors seen on Bright Angel Trail and in viewing the vast spaces overhanging the Colorado river marked one of the days when he was inspired for his future work for the splendor of nature made him realize that he could conquer space, because he was born with a spark of intelligence.

Young people must have an idea in life, he said. Then he told how a temple is conceived in the mind of one person before it is ever built. A plan is needed before it can become a reality. Then how much more necessary is it to plan for the building of a spiritual life?

School life is real life as well as a preparation for the life to come in citing the fact that the world is apt to be wary of youth he cited the fact that Thomas Jefferson was thirty-three when he wrote the Declaration of Independence. Patrick Henry was twenty-nine when he thundered forth the demand that the colonies take the stand for independence. The Carpenter of Nazareth was thirty-three when he had laid down his life work.

In speaking of the fact that you expect great things by those who are born with advantages he recalled the statement that it is three generations from shirtsleeves to shirtsleeves, and he mentioned that it has been said grandfathers used to sit on the steps and gas and now their grandsons step on the gas.

Men who have gone through hardships, who have counted the cost and dedicated their lives to a purpose were pointed out. Now is the time to choose if you will surround yourself with college or university life. The world will recognize the value of men who dedicate themselves to four years of college training.

Ninety per cent of the leaders of the United States are men who spent four years in high school and four years in college. Apply yourself when you are in school that your dedication may give back to you the largest returns, he urged when setting forth the advantages of a college education.

"I have the old fashioned habit of going to church. I recommend it to you," he said when illustrating the result of hours, weeks months and years of faithful hard work and training in the music he heard at church by the musician who played the pipe organ.

"Dedicate yourself to the task ahead and make yourself work. You must have an ideal and then faith that you can accomplish it. The best years lie before you Demands today are greater, there are greater opportunities with greater rewards than ever before. We have faith in you, we pray for you. Godspeed you, class of 1923," and the president of the University of Southern California closed his inspiring and memorable address.

In addition to the address there were several other excellent numbers of the evening. The high school orchestra, which received a tribute from the speaker of the evening when he praised the "discourse of sweet harmony,' played at the beginning and close of the program and the entrance march of the graduates.

Fred Bradshaw presented a large American flag as the class gift to the school and suggested that another class give the state flag at another graduation.

Seniors winning the gold seal of the honor society were announced by F. S. Moore, principal of the high school. They are Pauline Allen, Fay Knox, Margaret Carry and Thomas Walker.

Mrs. Johnson, president of the Woman's club, presented the English medal to the senior who had never had below an average of 90 in any study. This was given to Euna Emmerson.

Rev. Thomas Stevenson offered the invocation, Rev. Thomas Allen the benediction. Duncan Forsyth, president of the Burbank board of education, presented the diplomas to the class. Mrs. Homer Jones, clerk of the board of education, made a brief forecast of the future school work. Mr. Moore announced some new courses for the next year.

The graduates who received diplomas were:

Pauline Allen, Alice Bailey, Frances Bennett, Edna Benton, Fred Bradshaw, Margaret Carrue, Donald Fitzpatrick, Douglas Fitzpatrick, Ralph Foster, Elma Fulton, Florence Goodrich, August DeVittorio, Merrill Dunham, Euna Emerson, Virginia Hare, Bart Hayworth, Doris Hench, Ellen Hursh, Helen Jones, Fay Knox, Lynn Koppes, Lucille LeDoux, Velta LeMasters, Elizabeth Luttage, Louise Hoyers, Marie O'Donnell, Monzella Roach, Elsie Smith, Alice Steele, Thomas Walker, Fay Williams, Charles Whitney, Howard Wilson.

"LOVE IN THE DARK" TO END AT GLENDALE

"Love in the Dark," the new Metro photoplay starring the vivacious Viola Dana, closes tonight at the Glendale Theater. Those who have seen the photoplay pronounce it an extraordinary production and one of the most enjoyable comedy-dramas of the present season. It is certainly a highly exciting motion picture, and in it the interest never lags. Miss Dana fits into the part of the leading character excellently. Throughout the acting is of a high order.

"Love in the Dark" tells the story of a girl who is adopted by a member of a gang of crooks. She is engaged to take care of little Red, a four-year-old youngster. Her natural curiosity leads her to discover many things about the woman whose ward she is; and the plot complications enable her to expose a crook who is mulcting the son of a kindly minister who has adopted her and Red. Incidents of powerful drama and situations of genuine humor make this picture a delightful one throughout.

Harry Beaumont has directed the story, which J. G. Hawks adopted from the original narrative by John Moroso. John Arnold was the cameraman. J. J. Hughes was art director.

The cast supporting Miss Dana includes Cullen Landis, Arline Pretty, Edward Connelly, John Harron, Bruce Guerin, Margaret Mann and Charles West.

WILSON AVE. TEAM DEFEATS GLENDALE

The Wilson avenue all-star boys' team in indoor baseball, achieved another victory over the all-star team of Glendale avenue Thursday afternoon, winning the championship in the series of three games which had been arranged, and was awarded the cup.

This completed a brilliant baseball record for the school which has carried off all the championship honors.

First there were games in series of three between three different sections, viz., senior teams, intermediate and junior teams for both boys and girls. In these games Wilson avenue won two out of three in every game thus securing a cup.

In addition to this series, as a closing athletic contest, three games were arranged between "all star" teams composed of the best players of the two schools.

Thursday afternoon the second of these games between boys of the two schools was played, the Wilson players winning with a score of 9 to 6. Having won the first game they were declared the all-star champions and awarded a cup.

HIGH SENIORS TO STRUT GLENDALE THIS WEEK

Functions, Banquets and Class Days Mark Their Way

Bright stars in the firmament at Glendale High are the seniors who are wreathed in smiles and who walk with the assured tread of conquerors. To them all Glendale pays tribute and for them are the big functions of next week, the senior banquet and class day program Tuesday night, and the senior farewell dance Friday night.

For that social affair the class is spending the bulk of its appropriation on a fine 8-piece orchestra, the best to be had. President Allen Pollock has charge of the evening's program, and over the refreshments Marguerite Eckles, Adele Miles and Thomas McClellan will preside. Assisting Allan Pollock in providing program features, George Jansen, Loren Patrick and Margaret Richardson.

A special invitation is being extended to all alumni of the school and it is hoped many former students will be on the floor.

Class colors will feature the work of the committee on decorations, composed of Floyd Kinnan, Robert Kelso and Charlotte Cavell.

The reception committee will be made up of Charlotte Winsel, Elaine Buttrud and Beatrice Sutton.

Intervening between these functions will be commencement exercises which will be held Thursday evening in the Glendale Theater when President H. W. Yarick of the high school board of trustees will present certificates of graduation to the members of the big class.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS OF Y. L. I. TO BE HELD

Election of officers for the coming year was a feature of the business meeting of the Y. L. I., which was held last night at the Knights of Columbus hall on East Lomita avenue, when the following were chosen: Mrs. Frank Clark, president; Mrs. Jesse Smith, first vice-president; Miss Henrietta Meck, second vice-president.

A special meeting of the Y. L. I. will be held next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clark on Orange street when five new members will be initiated. Installation of officers will be celebrated with a party at the K. C. hall the following week.

OUR BOYS' SHOP OPENS JULY 1

To Be Located at 104 West Broadway

"Our Boys Shop," will be the name of the store that will be opened about July 1, by W. O. Richards of 339 West Milford street, at 104 West Broadway, formerly the location of the Webb Dry Goods company. This establishment, as the name suggests, will handle nothing but attire for boys and its stock will be strictly modern and up to the minute. Everything but shoes will be carried.

Mr. Richards has lived in Glendale for a year and a half. Since coming to Glendale most of his time has been spent as foreman of the boys' department of the J. W. Robinson company of Los Angeles. He spent some time as head of the boys' department in the Webb Dry Goods store, the purpose of this being to learn the needs of the local trade. He came to Glendale from Oklahoma City, where for 15 years he was in this particular line of business. The motto of this store will be:

"Efficient service, excellent values and popular prices."

Dr. Warren Newton Gives Scouts Aid

The Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills district who are fortunate enough to attend Camp Royl-Kent this summer will have the use of a pair of beautiful six power binocular field glasses for close study of birds and for signaling. They will also have the use of a pocketscope for star study. These instruments are the gift of Dr. Warren Z. Newton, local optometrist, of 121 North Brand boulevard. Dr. Newton is very much interested in the boy scouts and heads the scout committee of the Glendale Exchange club. Dr. Newton is planning to attend one of the ten-day troop camps this summer.

ATTRACTIVE JUGS

As decorative as they are useful are heat and cold retaining jugs and carafes to stand on the night table. One resembles the beautiful etched and hammered brass pitchers which come from the Orient. Others are in mahogany or dark blue enamel finish, as well as in lighter tones.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

Mrs. Estelle Lawton Lindsey, a very forceful writer and former member of the Los Angeles city council, recently expressed herself in no uncertain terms on the subject of mock marriages, condemning them most emphatically. I believe she is right. Marriage should be, always, a most sacred ceremony, as its original purpose is to unite, for life, two loving hearts. That it should be parodied, made fun of and mocked is, to my mind, sacreligious. Persons who do this are generally thoughtless and do not realize the seriousness of their actions. A true marriage is essentially a religious ceremony and should be entered upon with the greatest solemnity, especially when bride and groom are very young. It is a momentous act and one fraught with fearful possibilities when a young girl leaves the shelter of a Christian home and a loving mother's arms to entrust all her future life to a man whom she perhaps has known for only a few short months or years and of whose real inner self she is totally ignorant. Tricks played upon young people about to be married or who have just been wedded are, to my notion, very much out of place. When the world finally comes to the realization that marriage is a sacred, serious and responsible relation, divorces will be fewer.

Here's a gem of wisdom I came across recently in one of Harold Bindloss' stories of Canadian life: "When you win a fight in politics or business, somebody loses, but when you conquer Mother Nature, nobody loses and many profit thereby." True to the letter, itsn't it?

A Glendale lady who is enjoying a visit to the old home scenes in western Tennessee, writes that the negroes, who formerly fairly swarmed over the farms and city streets, are now almost a rarity. On her brother's home farm of several hundred acres, there is not one single negro worker, though a few years ago there were dozens of them. Neighboring families tell the same story and all over the south conditions are the same. The negroes have gone north by thousands to work in the mines, on the farms, in the factories and machine shops and even in stores. Few have returned. This wholesale exodus is due in part to the wily persuasiveness of employing agents sent down from the north and party to the resentfulness of the negroes for the murder of their innocent brethren at times by mobs of furious men, who, roused to madness by sex crimes, too often slay those whom they suspect without taking the trouble to investigate. Some of the negroes drift back to the old easy life on the plantations but most of them fail to return. Possibly this more equal distribution of the black men over the nation may finally result in a solution of the "negro problem."

A number of persons now living in Glendale were former residents of the Wabash river valley, either in Illinois or Indiana and a few of them will surely recognize some of the pictures I shall spread before them in the next several sentences. Something over 30 years ago I started out one lovely July morning, with my brother, to drive to Merom, Indiana, about 30 miles from the little Illinois city in which I lived. The dusty roads were bordered on each side by fields of growing corn or ripened wheat and the trees were beautiful in their summer dress of vivid green, while from the fields there came the scent of new-mown hay. When about ten miles on our way we crossed a little bayou and came out upon the sandy fields of the upper Wabash bottoms. Here, the corn was mostly in tassel, for it grew much faster than on the clay soil, and few trees were to be seen. Finally we turned to the east and then drove down into the lower river bottom. As we paused on the brink of the bluff a sight met our eyes that certainly was good to look at. Stretching for two or three miles straight ahead, the road we were to traverse could be seen like a white ribbon of sand between vast clusters of water lillies. There had been a second rise of the Wabash river that year, as sometimes happened, coming in early June, and large pools of water still remained. These were covered with lilies and as I gazed at their far-stretching beauty, these lines from a sweet old song came to my memory:

"Sweet fields beyond the swelling flood,
Stand dressed in living green."

Here and there were seen long-legged cranes, standing lik statues in the shallow water, looking for the fish that was their daily food. As we drove along they would rise slowly into the air, their long, stilt-like legs hanging down until they had gained a height of 100 feet or more and then were stuck straight out behind them. We finally reached the river's brink, drove on to the rickety old ferry boat and were soon in Indiana. But there, instead of a wide stretch of low bottom land, was a beetling cliff, towering several hundred feet straight up. A winding road, very steep, of course, led to the top of the bluff, where there was a fair little city, nestling around famed old Merom college. The next day the return trip was made and we had a curious adventure the like of which I never knew, before or since. During the entire trip, the sky had been cloudless and the roads very dusty. We approached a little creek which on the down trip showed but a tiny stream of water that we could step across, and were utterly astounded to see rolling by a swift muddy stream, 25 or 30 feet wide and evidently much too deep to ford. We drove back to the nearest farm house and asked how it was possible for the creek to rise so suddenly and to such a height without a drop of rain falling. We were told that there had been a cloud burst about 15 miles northwest, along the west fork of the creek, and considerable damage was done. This man told us that three miles up the creek was a good safe bridge which we could reach by a road skirting the south bank. We started off but had not gone far until we came to a good-sized tributary of the creek which was running bank full, but with a very sluggish current. So we plunged in and our horses gamely swam across, pulling the floating wagon quite easily. We soon reached the bridge and crossed it, then our troubles were over. But still the roads were dusty and there was not a sign of a rain storm. It is hard to imagine the feelings of a man who had always connected a raging stream of water in midsummer with muddy roads alongside and leading toward it for a long distance when he drives along miles of dusty roads under cloudless skies and comes upon what he deems will be a peaceful rivulet and finds it a resistless flood bearing huge trees upon its turbid bosom.

To my notion Charles Dickens is a master word painter in the English laugauge. Shakespeare is a wonderful delineator of human passions but he cannot play upon the chords of emotion as can the great novelist. In "David Copperfield" he runs the entire gamut, from grave to gay. Silly he undoubtedly is at times and very tiresome in his many repetitions but he can wring the very heart strings, nevertheless. Foolish, loving, little Dora; calm, beautiful, angelic Agnes; trusting, adoring Annie Strong; blunt, honest Traddles; rugged, faithful, loving Dan'l Peggoty, as well as the hero of the book, all are drawn in such faithful, vivid colors as to almost make them living creatures. No grander sentiments were ever uttered than Daniel Peggoty's loving words concerning his erring niece, Little Em'ly. No sadder death approach than that of the child wife, Dora, was ever described. There is a whole library in the one book.

The daughter of an ex-mayor of Los Angeles recently told a friend who is well known to me that he had a pull with every police judge in Southern California except Judge Cox of Santa Ana, and could get off from a fine for speeding or any other violation of the traffic laws any person he chose to make an appeal for. We know one other he hasn't a pull with and that is our own Judge Lowe. But if he has such power with any police judge it is a shame and disgrace and the judge who thus violates his oath of office and perjures himself should be scourged from public office. We know that men of wealth and influence do seem to have immunity from prosecution in many instances as has been proven too often, even in Glendale.

Tom Hutchinson of 321 North Orange, has lived in Glendale for 15 years and, in Los Angeles county for 60. He has seen Los Angeles grow from a little pueblo of 10,000 or less to its present mighty proportions and has traveled over the present site of Glendale when it was merely a part of the Verdugo rancho. He was telling a story the other day of a trip he took several years ago to the region north of Bishop at the foot of Mt. Whitney. When he reached his objective, which was the home of the man who furnished burros and acted as guide for parties climbing the rugged mountain passes, he saw a number of men standing around, awaiting the return of the guide from a trip recently undertaken. He joined them just as a shaggy, unkempt and ragged old man approached the house of the guide. Some of the bystanders spoke of him rather sneeringly and wondered that such a tough looking character was allowed about the premises. Mr. Hutchinson thought there was more to the man than appeared on the surface and judged him to be a wandering trapper. He followed him into the house and there learned he was the partner of the guide and that the two men lived all alone in the rough looking shanty. But when he entered the supposed shed he found himself in a large room, neat as a pin and stocked very plentifully with furniture. On the walls were many beautiful skins, dressed and ready for the market, and very valuable. There was one handsome silver gray fox pelt, several bear skins and other varieties. These had been secured by the two trappers during the long winter when the roads and trails were closed. Invited into the garden, Mr. Hutchinson was amazed to find it perfectly kept, with peach, plum, apple and other fruit trees here and there, all bending under their loads of fruit, while tomato vines trained on trellises to a height of six to eight feet were loaded with large ripe specimens. All kinds of garden truck and luscious melons were abundant. The vegetables, melons and fruit were given freely to all the waiting men, Mr. Hutchinson said.

Most people have an idea that the beauty contest is of very recent origin, but they are badly mistaken. The first one recorded was held a little less than 2500 years ago in Medo-Persia. You persons who read your Bibles carefully know all about it, of course, but I fear a few readers of these Observations are not of that class, so I'll sketch the story briefly. King Xerxes, called Ahasuerus in the Bible narrative, got on a big drunk at the close of a seven-day feast and debauch and after boasting to his boon companions of the transcendent beauty of his queen, Vashti, offered to prove his statements by exhibiting the lady to them, so he promptly sent an order for her to appear at once, robed in her royal garments. But Queen Vashti did not propose to be put on exhibition before a crowd of lewd, babbling courtiers, so she promptly sent word to her royal loard that she would not appear. Now this was high treason and the king was very wroth. He asked his advisers what he should do about it and one of them counseled him to at once depose her, for if he failed to punish the rebellious dame, every wife in the empire would be encouraged to defy her lord and master. So Queen Vashti was deposed and the king began to look around for another consort. The most beautiful virgins in all the vast kingdom of 127 provinces, extending from Ethopia to India were ordered to report at the palace Shushan, where they were immured for 12 months. Then one at a time, they appeared before the king and Hadassah, or Esther, was judged by him to be the most beautiful and modest damsel of the company and she was made queen. Now Esther, who was an orphan and had been tenderly cared for by her cousin, Mordecai, was a Jewess, though the king knew it not. It was her beauty and modest demeanor that had attracted the king. So you see this contest closed with the successful contestant being made a queen, just as most of them since that time have. As a result of her elevation to royalty, Esther was enabled to preserve her nation from destruction, as is related in the closing chapters of the book of Esther, which I advise you all to read.

Nearly 50 years ago, J. H. Garrison, a consecrated young Christian, acquired control of a small religious paper published in a little town in central Illinois. A burly, thick-set boy of 17 was then working in the office as "devil." A little later the paper was moved to St. Louis and another boy, a little older than the one first mentioned, joined the office force and the two young fellows became firm friends. They worked together on the paper for some years then both sought other fields of labor, losing track of each other for many years. The paper grew and was merged with another publication, finally becoming the powerful "Christian Evangelist," widely circulated among the Disciples of Christ. Mr. Garrison, now a resident of Los Angeles is the editor emeritus of the paper he conducted for so many years. The boy first mentioned is Charles C. Chapman of Fullerton, the "orange king and of lata years an "oil king." He is a multi-millionaire and gives many thousands of dollars every year to promote religious enterprises. The other boy is W. F. Richardson, beloved pastor of the Hollywood Christian church and one of the leading ministers of the Disciples of Christ. Thus these three, whose lives ran in the same channels in the years of their early manhood are all now in high position and living within a few miles of each other in this land of sunshine.

"Sister Amanda Ellen writes that Niece Gerandine, who is coming to visit us next week, has had 18 love affairs," said Mrs. Hornbeak, looking up from the letter from her city relative.

"Well, I sh'u'd wonder," interestedly ejaculated honest Farmer Hornbeak. "What in time can she do with 18 imitation ivory toilet sets?"

$2500 SCHOLARSHIP FOR W. S. C. STUDENTS

A check for $500 from Henry Kenyon Burch of Los Angeles, a 1901 alumnus of the State College of Washington, completes the $2500 scholarship fund established this year by the alumni and the class of 1923, each giving $1250. It will be presented to the regents on commencement day, June 14, to be invested and the proceeds awarded each year to a junior or senior student who has proved himself worthy of this assistance by maintaining high standards of scholarship and character while earning his way.

The donor of this final check of $500 has been called "dean of American metallurgical engineers" because of his astonishing advance in mine plant organization and construction work. His creative ability as a designer and constructor of industrial plants—some of the largest in Utah, Arizona, Mexico and California—has had great influence on metallurgical progress. He is one of a number of graduates of the engineering college who have made marked success since graduation.

It is much better to use cold water than hot for scrubbing floors, as it does not soak into the wood so readily, and consequently dries sooner. The scrubbing brush should always be moved up and down the boards with the grain of the wood, not across it.

Don't waste Ice—
Use It!

If you don't use sufficient ice, your refrigerator is never thoroughly cooled. Consequently the ice melts rapidly. And the cold air is absorbed by the refrigerator instead of by the food in it.

"BULL" DURHAM

Read this

Pentwater Mich. April 21st 1923

The American Tobacco Co
Durham N.C.

Dear Sirs after reading your Bull Durham ad in the paper I decided I would try Bull for a month and see for my self.

I used to smoke 2 packages of 15¢ cigarettes a day and during the first month I have smoked 24 sacks of Bull so this is what I saved

60 packages of cigarettes at 15¢ — $9.00
24 sacks of Bull Durham at 10¢ — $2.40
I saved $6.60 a month smoking Bull

This letter is to thank you for the money saving tip

I am Sincerely
Wm Andrews

You will be amazed to see how the use of "Bull" Durham tobacco will cut down the cost of your smoking. Remember, "Bull" gives you 50 cigarettes of the best flavor and quality for 10 cents.

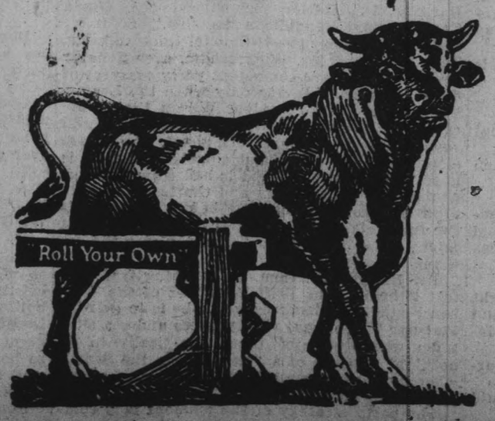
This means easily a saving for the average smoker of from $1 to $1.50 a week—$52 to $79 a year.

Seventy-nine dollars will buy lots of things. A radio set, a talking machine, a very fine suit of clothes, a set of tires, the first fifteen payments on a Ford, a good-sized insurance policy.

Hard to roll your own? Not really. Give yourself a chance to learn, this way:

Carry a sack of "Bull" in your pocket all the time, as well as your regular cigarettes. Every time you think of smoking a cigarette pull out your sack of "Bull" and try rolling one.

By the time you've used the sack you ought to be a fair producer. And you'll certainly be a convert to the mild, delightful flavor of "Bull" Durham tobacco.



With each package you receive a book of 24 leaves of RIZLA+—the finest cigarette paper in the world.

Now try it yourself and write us your experience

COAST HIGHWAY ASSURED

The defeat of Mrs. Rindge by Los Angeles county recently is a notable triumph. It means that the two ends of this state will be joined by a coast highway. Such a project has long been in view. For years the Rindge interests have fought it, apparently owing to a love of litigation. The great Malibu ranch, owned by the interests in question, must furnish a strip twenty-five miles in length, a slender width in no way lowering the value of the property, but enhancing it. The obduracy of the owners has kept the courts busy for years, meanwhile delaying important public work. A decision from the supreme court seems to sweep away all effective opposition. The work is expected to proceed at once, the stretch across the Malibu ranch one of the links.

Probably there could be no more picturesque length of highway in the world than that ultimately to reach from Los Angeles to San Francisco along the shore of the Pacific. It will be in the shadow of mountains, through forests; at many different elevations, marked by variations of flora, and always in sight will be the mighty Pacific. It will not alone add to beauty, or render beauty more accessible, but will be a powerful factor in material development. Even the persistent blocking of the Malibu has been a handicap to the dwellers in sections beyond, they having to reach market by a difficult and circuitous route.

The individual who takes station in the path of public progress is certain to be removed. Mrs. Rindge elected to take such station, and may have thought at times that she could stay the march of the community. She fought as hard as possible, but the job was too big, as it would have been for any other selfish interest.

COLORADO ESTABLISHES A PRECEDENT

The supreme court has confirmed the validity of an act of the Colorado legislature establishing the Moffat tunnel improvement district. The tunnel is to be through the continental divide, chiefly for railroad purposes, but will be used also for vehicles, electric wires and water pipes. Its completion will materially shorten the distance between Denver and Salt Lake City. It will also eliminate the more difficult portion of the present Moffat road, the highest rail line in the United States. Naturally there was some opposition to the plan, and certain taxpayers pleaded that to cause them to contribute to such an enterprise would be to deprive them of their property without due process of law. The supreme court failed to sustain this view. Four counties in Colorado, including Arapahoe, of which Denver is the county seat, would be responsible for any deficiency that might arise out of the failure of the tunnel to pay expenses.

Possibly there was behind the plan the inspiration of sentiment. David Moffat, long regarded as the most substantial millionaire of Colorado, a leading banker and active public figure, had cherished a dream of building a railroad across the Rocky mountains to the west. Into this he threw his resources so abundantly that the construction of the road left him stripped of fortune. Nor was the new road, under existing conditions, likely to be a success. Moffat died poor, but his name has been linked with the undertaking, which became, in a way, his monument. The people of the state felt that with the changes now proposed, the success would come. Anyhow they have had the faith to try it. They are building this important link in just the manner they might have gone about an equal length of automobile highway.

MARRIAGE AS A MERE FORM

Almost daily there is entered some plea for divorce showing that the parties to the contract were utterly unfit for marriage, that they had not possessed the faintest obligation touching its solemnity, or regarded it as taking on any suggestion of permanency. Marriage, with them had been a matter of impulse, of convenience, of expediency. The obligations they undertook had been without meaning to them. They believed they could go to court and have the bonds snipped as handily as a clerk snips a bit of string.

A recent case was that of a girl who had married in 1921 at the age of fifteen, the union being urged by the mother. The object of the marriage as given by the thoughtful mother, was to save the man from the penitentiary. In just what manner this effect was to be produced, deponent did not make clear. But it was about as poor an excuse for marrying as could have been advanced. If the man merited a penitentiary term, the one proper course would have been to permit him to serve it. If the experience failed to have reformatory influence marriage could not have done better. Besides, taking into consideration the fact that the man probably was not worth saving, it certainly was wrong to sacrifice a daughter to the effort.

In this instance divorce was denied. The pair never had lived together, and the union therefore doesn't amount to much. Still, were it to be dissolved both parties to it would be likely to marry somebody else, which, in a small way, would be a social calamity.

The assertion that women are less moral than men is attributed to a writer of fiction. In making such a statement he is clinging to his regular vocation. There is not the slightest reason why his silly dictum should have started a controversy. It is impossible to believe that he is serious. He assumes a ground obviously untenable and makes himself ridiculous.

BORAH'S INTENT TO STICK

Senator Borah says that he will stick to the republican party. He adds an expression of belief that the world court will die in the next session of the senate. Of course such a process would be welcomed by him and be sure of his assistance.

The world court, as it stands before the country now, is a proposition advanced by President Harding, head of a republican administration. If Borah is to stick to the party, as he says, and fight its policies as he intimates, doubtless he would be more than welcome not to stick. His sticking is too much in the nature of the burr. To stick to a party is to accept and uphold its principles. To stick to a party is one thing, and to stick a party with a knife is quite another. When a man professes friendship by word, and displays hostility by every act, his verbal declaration may be set down as meaningless.

Borah declares that he will not enter a third party move. Unhappily the declaration of a politician of ambitions, may not be taken at face value. The Idaho senator is numbered with the malcontents doing their utmost to embarrass and hamper the administration. They already have become a sort of third party. They must be reckoned as a third party, or as men having no party, for by no stretch of imagination are they to be regarded as republicans. Borah, La Follette and Johnson of the senate, taking counsel of Hearst, may not be a party at all, but any one of them deserves to be rated republican precisely as much as the rest of the quartet deserve such characterization.

Two of the greatest bores in the world are an oil drill and the man who says, "I told you so."

And the only way to impress some people is to suppress them.

"MY WIFE'S FAILINGS"

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

"Come and listen in on the failings of my wife."

One hundred people in Berlin recently received gold edged, engraved invitations from a man who was suing his wife for divorce inviting them to attend the proceedings and "listen in" on the woman's failings.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

For smallness I can imagine nothing surpassing this action. Still the people who received the invitations came to court, and, happily for the honor of the German bench, they were summarily barred by the presiding judge. When the room was clear his honor divorced the pair.

The incident, because of its bizarre character, received press notice, but so far nobody seems to have thought it worth comment. Still, what could possibly throw a more revealing light on the man's character?

Self pity bulks large as one of his salient traits and added to it a mean desire to humiliate. Vain he was or he could never have enjoyed the petty triumph incident to having an invited audience listen to witnesses expose the weaknesses of the woman he had married.

With such outstanding "virtues" is it any wonder he found discord guiding the rudder in his home?

A sense of humor might have saved the situation in the Berliner's home as it has saved situations the round world over ever since men learned to laugh, but no one with a modicum of humor could have taken himself and his marital bumps with such pathetic solemnity as the author of those divorce court invitations showed when he issued them.

And what is life, much less marriage, if the sense of humor is atrophied?

To be sure that couple would never thereafter have gotten on together. Still, if I had been the judge on the case, I think I'd have denied the man a divorce on no other ground than the exhibition of instinctive traits shown by the invitation business. His wife might have been unhappy, but, as things stand, he is now free to marry some other woman, and with the same selfish psychology, the same arrogance, the same owl-like absence of that life saving sense of proportion that we call humor, he is free to ruin her life. For of course he will remarry; the shortage of men in Germany will make that easy.

His one chance of the discipline that is coming to him stands in the possibility that he may stumble onto a woman who can see how funny he is.

Here's hoping. The one weapon that could ever pierce the armor of stolid conceit that enwraps his kind is ridicule. Had somebody had the hardihood to laugh at Wilhelm Hohenzollern 40 years ago it's possible that the history of the world might have been different. But nobody did and he not only lost his own crown but destroyed the sense of humor in an entire nation. Today he is the most ridiculous figure in all the world.

"Come and listen in on the failings of my wife." The author of that invitation might have with truth added:

"There is no need to listen in on mine; this invitation sufficiently reveals them."

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

IS "50 TO 60 YARDS" PLURAL?

(Find the error in this article)

"50 to 60 yards per minute is the average production."

The foregoing sentence has been submitted by H. J. R. The writer wants the opinion of "The Right Word" as to whether is should be changed to are, one contention being that yards is plural and that therefore the verb should be plural, another being that "50 to 60 yards per minute" may be considered in the singular sense.

The last contention is right. The thought is not yards, but (50 to 60 yards per minute, or, a certain rate per minute, a singular idea.

To Miss Gertrude Quinn, Chicago: "The Right Word" has discussed shall, should, will, and would frequently. They will be continued at intervals in the future.

Loring Peters: "Is the following sentence correct: 'I have enough money for you and I'?"

Answer: "I" is the wrong word. You should say, "for you and me."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

It would be interesting to interrogate a class of graduates from school.

Not about dates and rules and facts and figures and theorems.

JAMES W. FOLEY

About something more important than any of them.

Because they are not the most important things.

* * *

You can find facts and figures in books.

You can get somebody to do a problem for you if it becomes necessary.

You can refer to books for bits of information you may want.

But there are some things you have to do for yourself.

* * *

You can't well get somebody else to make a decision for you.

You have to do that yourself.

You can't ask somebody to bear a personal responsibility for you.

You have to do that for yourself.

* * *

There will be many times in life when you have to stand pretty squarely on your own feet.

Learn to say yes or no.

Learn to do or not to do.

And to abide the consequences.

* * *

So the most important thing to learn perhaps is to make sensible use of the knowledge you have gained.

To apply it.

To apply the learning you have to your moral obligations.

Moral and spiritual and physical.

To play fairly.

Deal squarely.

Keep in good health.

Maintain good nature.

And make a living.

* * *

Life is another and greater school.

And we learn things in that.

And the greatest thing we learn perhaps is to play fairly.

To contest honorably and courageously.

To bear defeat with good nature.

To achieve success with humility.

* * *

So the great thing to be learned in school as well as in life is to make use of learning and experience with fairness, honesty, decency and intelligence.

To work and not to shirk.

To build and not destroy.

To praise rather than condemn.

To help rather than hurt.

* * *

For in life sentiment counts for much.

Better have a hard head and a soft heart than a soft head and a hard heart.

But it is better not to have too much of hardness either in the head or the heart.

* * *

To play fairly.

That is after all the main thing.

Not to take unfair advantage.

Not to cheat or lie or steal or mislead.

To help misfortune rather than take advantage of it.

To protect weakness rather than exploit it.

To be cheerful and earnest and mellow and industrious and generous and kind.

* * *

And is this the thing you have learned in school?

Songs of the Poets

Dawn and Dark—By Norman Gale

God with His million cares
Went to the left or right,
Leaving our world; and the day
Grew night.

Back from a sphere He came
Over a starry lawn,
Looked at our world; and the dark
Grew dawn.

CHILDREN AND THE BIBLE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

IT IS every child's right to be familiar with the Bible.

Some day when we shall have outgrown our religious contentions and have ceased to identify religion with combative sects and creeds, we shall get around to the very important business of giving every child the advantage of developing his religious sentiment.

The great religious book of Western civilization is the Bible. It is a curious compound of history, story, ethical teaching and poetry. It has woven itself into the very fabric of our culture.

It is safe to say that no man can be called properly educated unless he has studied the Bible, because the main idea in education is for the child to be given the advantage of beginning where his parents left off. And the Bible is so much a part of the world's thought for past centuries that it cannot be neglected.

All this is quite apart from the question of whether we be Christians, Jews or what not, quite apart from our theories and war cries. Whatever our attitude toward the Bible and its teachings may be, we cannot afford to be ignorant of them.

Honore Willsie, the distinguished author, who has devoted much thought to the training of children, declares:

"There are many children who know more of Greek mythology than of the God of their fathers, since it is becoming more and more a commonplace nowadays not to give children formal religious training. Often they go neither to Sunday school or to church, and in many instances are not taught even to say their prayers. The Bible, if they see one at all, is only a beautifully bound book, much covered with dust; and Mother Goose is their only god. For all of its rebelling, the last thing that adolescence desires is mental or spiritual independence. It has a very urgent need to believe that the universe moves on a well-ordered and inevitable plan, and that all its rebellion will break eventually on the trial of the undeviating march of things."

There are some parents so eager to give their children liberty, so anxious to let them choose their own faith, that they forget the fact that a child needs moral training and inspirational development even more than it needs to have its head stored with facts.

Up to the present time no other book in the world is so important a compendium of moral truth and so considerable a center of ethical force as the Bible. And it is doing a great wrong to a child if he is not made familiar with this book of the ages, this book that has entered so thoroughly into the life and thought of civilization.

At least we had better hang onto the Bible until Mr. Wells and others have fixed up a better one for us. And the trouble with that enterprise is that it usually takes centuries to make a thing that is going to last for centuries.

One thing the Bible gives that so many of the smart authors of this day lack—background.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WORLD QUESTIONS

[New York World]

* * * But Dr. Butler correctly estimates the comparative weight of his issues when he discusses first of all our relations with foreign lands. "Probably not fewer than 80 per cent of the voters of the country," he says, "are in favor of a constructive policy of international cooperation." That constructive policy is before the voters in the form, primarily, of President Harding's appeal to the country for participation in the Permanent Court of International Justice. But behind that immediate issue appears the hope or the fear, real or assumed, that the court might lead us some paces further toward participation in or association with the League of Nations.

And why not? Returning less than a month ago from a conference in Augusta with Mr. Harding, Dr. Butler pronounced the World Court "sound Republican doctrine." So it is; and so is the League—if Colonel Roosevelt, Mr. Taft, Mr. Root, Mr. Wickersham, even Senator Lodge himself, are competent party assayers of doctrinal purity. It was only when the League was furthered by President Wilson that it became, for campaign purposes, Democratic and suspect. President Harding himself, who before election would "take and combine all that is good and exercise all that is bad from both organizations" (the Court and the League), said after his inauguration, but before he had felt the full weight of Senatorial discipline, that it might be well for us to "engage under the existing League."

Dr. Butler will, then, be speaking from the text if he informs British hearers of the Watson Foundation lectures which he is to deliver, that our "people are very restless under a situation which permits them practically to do nothing" because of a "situation in the Senate whereby a very small group are in a strategic position to prevent action."

The party strategy of the moment may compel him to add that "those gentlemen who are so vigorously opposing our acceptance of the existing International Court of Justice on the hollow ground that this means entering the League of Nations are likely to be treated to a great surprise." The great and vital fact, not to be denied, is that the American people are well aware that we cannot ignore world questions and expect world problems to pass us by untouched.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

News comes from Tsaochwang that the last of the captives long held by bandits has been dismissed. Oriental customs are as puzzling as the pronunciation of their geographical names.

HENRY JAMES

This entire affair, instead of casting light on conditions in China, leaves them more darkly obscure than before. It is a strange sort of government in the jurisdiction of which bandits may hold captives and decline to submit to interference. News that the bandits are being accepted into the army is not exactly reassuring. The foreign visitor would not be made to feel secure by the presence of an army recruited from robbers and cutthroats. However, people who don't like China as the residents conduct it, may exercise the privilege of staying away.

The Chinese are a singularly honest people, but the exceptions among them go to extreme. There is no bandit more reckless and brutal than the Chinese. In ferocity and greed the Chinese pirate is a class all by himself. The Chinese who turns criminal is about the shrewdest figure that functions in the underworld.

The fact that China can nurture fighting clans indicates a national potency that may make the country something to be feared enough so that the powers will cease to assume tacitly, the right to cheat and bamboozle it, as the powers always have done.

Chairman Lasker of the shipping board, does not seem to place a high value on public opinions. His answer to the adverse criticism of the plan to use the Leviathan for a junket, was to issue invitations to the guests.

The Leviathan is a large vessel belonging to the people of the United States. They have just finished the task of refitting it, expending $8,500,000 for this purpose. Lasker is on their payroll, at a salary most individuals working for pay would regard as highly satisfactory.

Perhaps the idea in spending millions on the Leviathan was to make it spick and span for picnic purposes.

No, the correspondent avers, Henry will be the candidate of a fourth party; his own little party. Then he proceeds, the correspondent does, to figure out what the effect of this would be on the election.

He wasted the time he devoted to the job. There would be no effect worth mentioning.

The mania for confessing to deeds never done represents a queer phase of the human mind. There are likely to be manifestations of it every time a startling crime is committed.

Perhaps as good a way as any would be to keep right on doing fine work in promotion of loyalty to the constitution, and devotion to the country. For example, they were active in exposing the fact that a lot of so-called American histories were not history. They were given wide credit for this, and succeeded in getting a lot of the bunk and junk thrown out of the schools.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

It does beat the hairy old Nick how grievances accumulate. Once they begin to prey on one's mind they keep on preying. By and by one hasn't anything but grievances. And there seems not to be anything to do about it. If one tells a trouble-hunter not to worry so much about himself he worries all the more. There's young Jim Cassell as an example.

Cassell works for a hard finished old product of the time when a pickhandle was one of the best possible introductions to the world of industry. The old gentleman walked into many a town in his younger days, with his entire property on his back, a raging thirst in his innards and a furious resolution to buy a lot of cheese sandwiches at the first opportunity.

"And I had a good time," he says. "D'ye mind that, now? Every day was a good day to me."

Young Jim Cassell has had some hard luck, I suppose. His wife isn't entirely satisfactory. Her brains seem to have the power of the thinking apparatus of an old-fashioned black-faced sheep. She cackles, too, instead of laughing, and the only time she is not talking is when she is asleep. Maybe then. I've never seen her asleep. But she is pretty, neat, kindly—and she is the girl that Young Jim picked out for himself a few years ago as the only one with whom he could possibly go through life. No doubt Jim has other troubles. He says he has.

"The trouble with the boy," says the hard old gentleman he works for, "is that he is so sorry for himself that he is reducing his efficiency. It may be news to Jimmie that I do not care a damn what his troubles are and that no one else cares a damn. It is a hard word, but true. I'm hiring Jimmie to work for me and not to mourn like a dove. And that word goes as it lays."

I put that hint into young Cassell's ear, and he brooded about his troubles all the more. You cannot do anything with a chump like that.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

JOHN MUIR GRADUATING EXERCISES DRAW LARGE CROWDS TO SCHOOLHOUSE

Class Arranges Good Program for Commencement Thursday Afternoon When Sixty-six Receive Diplomas from Grammar Grade

The John Muir school graduating exercises at the school house Thursday afternon drew such large crowds that long before the graduates marched in the state fire laws were ignored by the eager relatives and even the S. R. O. sign could not have had room.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated with banks of flowers. The program had to be given inside because Cypress avenue road improvements caused a thick dust screen to hang over the outdoor grounds.

E. B. Thomas, principal of the school, was given an ovation from his pupils, teachers and Superintendent Collins at various times during the program. The afternoon began with the entrance of the graduates, the largest class ever graduated in the history of Burbank.

Miss Verl Freyburger, supervisor of music, pianist, and Harriet Valentine, violinist, played "The Pilgrim's Chorus" (Wagner) for the entrance march. Rev. Thomas Stevenson offered the invocation. Miss Brown, one of the guardians of the class, announced the program.

Words of greeting were given by Marian Mason. This was followed by the solo of Mrs. Homer Jones, accompanied by H. S. White, supervisor of music at the high school.

The class alphabet given by Noble Kinard, Elizabeth Brown, Jane Hollomon, Howard Smith and John Corry was a novel way of paying compliments, giving roses and bricks, to their classmates.

Harriet Valentine, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Fisher, gave a violin solo. The class prophecy was dramatized by Louise Wellington, Jacqueline McDonald, Pauline Bossuet, Victoria Ackerly, Emily Bossuet, Vincent Weber, Anabel Evans and Herbert Trugonia. The playlet foretold what the class of 1923 would be doing in 1943.

Margaret Wood, pianist, Wilfred Haflinger, violinist, and Anabelle Evans, celloist, played the Barcarole from the Love Tales of Hoffman.

Alberta Swall read two short numbers.

Mrs. Harding, president of the Parent-Teacher association, presented the P.-T. A. medal for the highest scholarship to Louise Wellington and to the winner of the medal of the seventh grade, Burnell Waite.

Mr. Thomas, in a short talk, presented the class to Mr. Collins. He urged the children to continue their studies on through high school and college.

Superintendent L. F. Collins, presented the diplomas to the class. He pointed out the opportunities that lie before the graduates. He praised the class for the spirit of enthusiasm which has prevailed, the spirit of co-operation, friendliness, clean thinking and clean doing which is the very spirit of the John Muir school. In speaking of the principal, Mr. Thomas said he was a man "of high purpose, clear vision and a lover of the outdoor world." This character and spirit which makes John Muir school is worth more to the pupils than anything they have learned from books, stated Mr. Collins in conclusion. He then called the following boys and girls to step forward and receive the diplomas tied with ribbons of the class colors, rose and green:

Stanley Applegate, Victoria Ackerly, George J. Baker, Josephine Hutchinson, James R. Hare, Wilfred G. Haflinger, Lloyd M. Fenn, Marvin D. Evans, Aldrich D. Kendall, Donovan Edward Layhon, Loren D. Ludlow, E. Myrtle McVeagh, Marion Mason, Herbert A. Rigoni, Eugene E. Russell, Claudia J. Sealy, Clarence H. Shepard, Wethia Rina Stephens, Alberta F. Swall, Helen Louise Wellington, Edith Annabelle Evans, Elizabeth Enyort, John Corry, Donald Catlin, Elizabeth Clemow, Josephine Canzoneri, Elizabeth Ann Brown, Emily Francoise Bossuet, Harry E. Mundy, Irene Depew, Catherine Casella, Habert Calley, Dominic Brusso, Pauline Bossuet, Helen E. Bogardus, Phillip S. Benton, Robert A. Woods, Dorothy Coppersmith, George Burton, Melton Charles Ball, Harry Clemow, Lawrence Rimmer, Edna E. Jackson, Beatrice Mary Hughes, Jane Holloman, Lloyd Harding, Donald M. Gilbert, Leona Fischer, John Farrall, William J. Keefe, Noble E. Kinnaird, Francis Lewis, Norman L. Line, Glen Lockwood, Jacqueline M. Donald, Kenneth S. Martin, Maurine May, Elmer L. Olson, Floyd Park, Carolyn Edith Robins, John M. Scribner, Florence M. Shettle, Howard B. Smith, Edith K. Stalper, Harriet Valentine, Mary Virginia Vance, Vincent P. Weber, Margaret Vivian Wood.

Mrs. A. L. Hamilton, of Pasadena, past national president of the Parent-Teacher association, spoke Thursday afternoon at the Joaquin Miller Parent-Teacher association. This was the last meeting of the year and the association had the best program of the year for a happy summer memory.

Mrs. Hamilton is a very interesting speaker because of her sincere and earnest manner of presenting her ideas. She spoke of the value of play for children and advised mothers to let everything go if need be but the play hours with the children.

The outdoor dramatization of fairy stories and pageants was the thing she recommended for vacation days. Citing papers from the "Child Welfare Magazine," she read various methods by which the community can give the plays at slight cost.

She told how cotton flannel can easily be dyed a vivid color, gauze and oil cloth were other materials suggested. She suggested ransacking attics for objects that could be painted and transformed into stage properties and the mother and child will enjoy it all the more. Through the outdoor play in the summer the individual talent of the youngsters can be developed, according to Mrs. Hamilton.

Mrs. Rogers, president of the association, presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. The program follows:

Piano solo—"Happy Family," Esther Sinclair
Piano solo—"On the Meadow," Esther Sinclair
Address—Children's Vacation, Mrs. A. L. Hamilton
Vocal solo—"You and I," Mrs. Charles Lovejoy, accompanied by Mrs. Hart
Vocal solo — "Sunbeam," Mrs. Charles Lovejoy, accompanied by Mrs. Hart.
Duet—"The Happy Lark," Esther Sinclair and Mrs. B. E. Chivens

TO HAVE WEEK TO STUDY THE U. S. CONSTITUTION

Attorney Margaret Yale has received notice of the observation of "Constitution week," being sponsored by the American Bar association, of which she is a member. It is to be observed from June 24 to June 30, the week preceding the Fourth of July.

This week is set aside for the study of the constitution of the United States, for as President Harding said on Flag day, of the song, "Star Spangled Banner," more than 90 per cent of the people are ignorant of the constitution of the land of which they boast.

During the last week of June the attention of American people will be directed to the ease with which they could learn about the constitution if they would take the time.

BAPTISTS ELECT NEW BIBLE SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

The Baptist Sunday school has elected Francis Winchester as the new superintendent to take the place of Gorman Omarth who recently moved to Oregon. Mr. Winchester will begin his duties Sunday morning.

Mrs. C. B. Fitzsimmons has been elected the new director of the choir. Her work will begin Sunday.

HIGH SCHOOL YEAR BOOK IS ISSUED

High school pupils were greatly excited over the yearly event, the issuing of "The Ceralbus," Thursday. The year book is gotten out in excellent style. The covers are dark green with gold lettering.

The staff members are: Douglas Fitzpatrick, editor-in-chief; Ralph Foster, advertising manager; Thomas Walker, business manager; Virginia Hare, literary; Louise Meyer, calendar; Faye Williams, senior notes; Dorothy Irving, junior notes; Evelyn Dull, sophomore notes; Kenneth Burnette, freshman notes; Frances Bennett, athletics; Donald Fitzpatrick, jokes; Elsie Smith, alumni; Frederick Bradshaw, organizations; Edna Benton, dramatics; Pauline Allen, art notes; Maudalys Sims, music notes; Margaret Carrie, social events; Reynolds Packard, sketchings; Charles Whitney, snapshots.

The pictures of the faculty are first, followed by the seniors, with an enlightening one line characterization explaining each photograph. Jokes on the faculty and students interest everybody. Snapshots of school events during the year make the book a pleasant collection of memories. The art work throughout the pages is of unusual excellence and it is a worthy achievement of the class.

CALL MEDICAL MEETS

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—The Institute for Tuberculosis Workers will meet here June 27-July 12, and the Institute for Public Health Nurses, under the auspices of the California State Board of Health and summer session of the University of California, will meet here July 23-August 4. The purpose of the Institute for Tuberculosis Workers is to provide a course in training for those who already are engaged in the work, or for those who may wish to enter the field, according to Dr. Phillip P. Jacobs, New York City, who will be in charge of the sessions.

GERMAN CONVICTS RUN RACES

[By Associated Press]

BERLIN, June 15—Sports are being introduced in German prisons, and the first trial of the experiment during 1922 is said to have met with encouraging results.

In the penitentiary near Berlin, 224 hours of physical exercises and athletic training were given in the course of the year by a well-known instructor in these branches. More than a hundred men and boys participated. Gymnastics, races and team contests were parts of the schedule.

MOTHERS BUSY ON THURSDAY

Attention Given to Morning, Afternoon and Evening Exercises

Mothers who had children of various ages were unsually busy Thursday. For in the morning they had to see that the children attending the grammar grades were speckless and spotless for they celebrated Flag day as one of the events of the last day of school.

About a thousand children marched to the Edison grounds where the flag of the United States was raised to the top of the flag staff, and a short program celebrating the day was given under the auspices of the American Legion, with Dr. Earl Wilson in charge.

Hundreds of flags of various sizes were carried by the school children. E. L. and B. O. Fisher played a duet upon the cornet and trombone. The very youngest tots in school, each carrying a small flag, led the way for the big flag, which was carried by City Trustees Jackson and Watson from the steps of the school to the flag staff. It was given to a representative of the Girls Scouts of the Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls who slowly raised it, as Ray Proctor played "To the Colors" on the cornet.

Girls from the John Muir school, accompanied by Miss Verl Freyburger at the piano, sang "The Star Spangled Banner." The short program closed with the oath of allegiance and salute to the flag by the school children and representatives of the patriotic bodies of the town: Dr. A. E. W. Yale, commander of the American Legion; Bert Cross, of the Rotary club; Ted Covel of the Kiwanis club; Captain Tillson of Company I; and Lieutenant Harry B. Wilson of the aviation corps.

After the Flag day exercises came the junior high school commencement in the afternoon, and at night the seniors of the high school were given the attention of the community.

PERMITS STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS

Two building permits were issued Thursday. They were issued to: H. A. Hillson, garage, 1077 North Providencia avenue, $425; Elizabeth Brainard, Chestnut street, $150; grand total, $575.

INDIAN WAR PAGEANT

LACK OF BOXING LOST KILBANE'S CROWN

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

Johnny Kilbane lost the world's featherweight championship not so much because he was a "used up man," but because he was not used enough.

Jack McAuliffe, the retired, undefeated lightweight champion, put this theory in good words when he said Kilbane's was not the one of the pitcher going to the well once too often, but that of the pitcher who didn't make the trip often enough.

Kilbane passed out from under his crown because he missed with his right hand, not once, but nearly every time he found an opening for it. He had not boxed enough in the last two years to keep up his judgment of distance.

After Kilbane's exhibition, showing the danger of remaining out of action so long, a lot of the wise boys are looking upon Tommy Gibbons as a stronger opponent for Dempsey than he was originally considered.

Dempsey had better not miss with his right hand the way Kilbane did. If he misses only once it may be fatal for him, and if he misses many times, he is almost sure to be knocked out.

No heavyweight in the business can take the chance of missing Gibbons.

After the second round in Jersey City, when Carpentier cracked him on the jaw with that famous right, Dempsey remarked in his corner:

"That's the best he's got and I can take it.'

He can't take the best that Gibbons has.

After the fourth round against Kilbane, Criqui told his seconds: "He can't hurt me."

Kilbane could have hurt him, however, and he did hurt him several times, but Kilbane couldn't hit him with his full strength. He had lost his judgment of distance and his timing was all off.

Johnny said after the fight that he was afraid of his hands. He was avoiding the possibility of breaking one of his dukes on the head of the Frenchman, but if he had kept himself in fighting form instead of staying out of the ring for two years he would not have been in that danger.

Physicians Great Discovery is Guaranteed by Druggists to End Piles Forever

Ask Any Good Druggist for a Package of MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES. They Must End Your Trouble, or Money Back

Years of patient, painstaking effort on the part of a well known Rochester physician has resulted in a prescription that will actually heal piles and absorb them never to return.

You'll be amazed to see how quickly it acts. Blessed relief often comes in an hour; even in cases of long standing with profuse bleeding, really wonderful results have been accomplished.

No man or woman need suffer another hour from any pain, soreness or distress arising from Hemorrhoids or Piles now that this wonderful prescription known as MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES can be obtained for a moderate price at any first-class drug store on the money-back if dissatisfied plan.

Remember the name, MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES, and be sure to follow the simple directions that come in each box.

Special Note—Out of town sufferers: 60 cents mailed to Moava Products Co. at Rochester, N. Y., will bring a box by Parcel Post and guaranteed.—Advertisement.

EAGLE ROCK NEWS

COMMUNITY PLAY-HOUSE MAY BE BUILT

Refusal of Permit to Use Central School May Lead Them to Build Own Home

Looking ahead into the possibility of refusal of the Los Angeles school board to allow the Community Players permission to use the Central school building, it is quite probable that Eagle Rock will be able to boast a real community playhouse of its own in the future. Some time ago a letter was addressed to the Los Angeles board, asking for a definite statement regarding the right of the players to put on their productions in the schoolhouse, as has been the custom in the past. No reply was forthcoming, and recently, despite the many favorable verbal assurances that the present custom would not be disturbed, word has reached the Community Players that there is some indecision and hesitancy about allowing them the use of the building.

When this question first arose, there was a decided feeling that the time for a real Community playhouse was drawing near at hand, and a number volunteered their financial aid in erecting the structure. The matter was then allowed to rest until further word had been received from the Los Angeles school board.

The enthusiasm for a specific home, well fitted and complete, is again upon the Community Players, and in case of an unsatisfactory reply to their petition, there is every evidence that those most interested will step forward to carry out the plans now formulating.

With the plentiful supply of musical, dramatic and artistic talent in Eagle Rock, the founding of a definite place for all Community productions will be a worth-while step in the upbuilding of this section.

MRS. H. S. REED SUMMER SCHOOL SUPT.

Ten Teachers Needed to Accommodate Students Enrolled

Mrs. H. S. Reed, teacher at Central school, will superintend the special summer session which is free this year. Eight teachers have been signed up, and it is expected that two more will be allowed this district to care for the number of pupils already on the enrollment list, which amounts to over three hundred. As 10 teachers will have at least 30 students to train, each of them will be busy, and if no more than eight are allowed, it is quite possible that some of the children will have to be discouraged. Those who really need the work will be shown preference, if it is necessary to weed out any of the pupils. However, it is expected that the quota of 10 instructors will be allowed here.

The session opens July 9 and runs to August 17. A manual training section will be kept up two days each week, and there is some discussion on the question of a domestic science class also.

The following teachers have been signed up: Miss C. Christianson, Miss Stella Boley, Miss Ruth E. French, Mrs. Mattie L. Maddox, Mrs. Gertrude Dust, Miss Helen M. Londergan, Mrs. Mabel L. Roadhouse, Miss Dorothy Deman.

Two-Story Brick Building to Be Erected on Central Lot

The lot, owned by Sam Franks of Glendale, which lies next to the real estate office of Dr. Samuel Liles, at 109 South Central avenue, was sold to Dr. K. Black, also of Glendale, yesterday, by Dr. Liles. The price ranged about $13,000.

Dr. Black announces that she will erect a two-story brick business building on the lot.

Wednesday night the Y. P. F. of St. Barnabas Episcopal church served a dinner to the general public, which brought out a crowd of about 65 persons. The dinner, at 50 cents a plate, was declared delicious by all present.

Will Your Shoes Look As Well As The New Clothes You Have?

Graduation night decrees that you have every habiliment looking the best possible. It is important that the shoes be of the kind that always look well, so you should get a shoe that will look just as well several months after the event as well as at graduation.

Cheap shoes may look well, but they do not have the stamina to stand long and hard usage.

The BUSTER BROWN SHOE STORE handles only such shoes as will give maximum wear for minimum cost.

There is a good selection here for the young man or the young lady.

Patent Leathers, King Tut Sandals, the new tongue model, the favorite strap model as well as the regular styles for the misses, and the young man will find just what he wants.

Make this your opportunity at this time to buy your footwear.

LITTLE TRIPS IN LAND OF BOOKS FOR CHILDREN

BY CHAS. H. CUSHING

The children will find plenty of good reading to occupy their vacation days at the south branch library. Many new books have recently been added in the juvenile department.

Of special interest to girls are the "Hildegarde" series and "The Margaret" series, both by Laura E. Richards.

Animal lovers will enjoy the following little books by Roberts: "The Lord of the Air," "Haunter of the Pine Gloom," "Return to the Trails," "Little People of the Sycamore." The following new books have been added to the "Jack" series by Grinnell: "Jack, the Young Explorer," "Jack, the Young Cowboy" and "Jack, the Young Canoeman."

Some non-fiction books of special interest to the children are: "Elizabeth Fry" and "Florence Nightingale," both by Laura E. Richards. "Small Boat Building," by Patterson. "A Little Gardening Book for a Little Girl," by Martin. "American Boys' Work Shop," by Kelland. "Indian Heroes and Great Chieftains," by Eastman. "American Leaders," in two volumes, by Lefferts. "Letters of Polly the Pioneer," by Nida. "American School Toys," by Kunou. "Golden Deeds on the Field of Honor," by Watson. "How to Make Baskets," by White. "Heroes of the Nations," by Alshouse. "The Plain Story of American History," by Bassett. "The Boy with the U. S. Life Savers," and "The Boy with the U. S. Naturalists," both by Rolt-Wheeler.

"Boy Scouts' Year Book," for 1922. "Pirates," by Fraser. "Broad Stripes and Bright Stars," by Bailey. "Our United States," by Guitteau. "The Young Citizen's Own Book," by Fraser. "Book of American Wars," by Nicolay. "When the Buffalo Ran," by Grinnell. "Famous Leaders of Industry," by Wildman. "Book of Athletics," by Withington. "The First Days of Man," by Kummer.

The library has secured a number of books of selections for reading and recitation: "Handbook of Best Readings," by Clark. "Winning Declamations and How to Speak Them," by Shutter and eleven numbers of "100 Choice Selections," edited by Garrett.

A recent acquisition is a choice edition in art craft binding of Roosevelt's later works including his autobiography, "Through the Brazilian Wilderness," "Outdoor Pastimes of an American Hunter," and "A Book Lover's Holiday in the Open.'

Those interested in the study of the administration of justice will welcome Arthur Trains "Courts and Criminals," "True Stories of Crime" and "The Prisoner at the Bar."

PLAYGROUND FOR EAGLE ROCK IS IN PROSPECT

Ten or Twelve Acres Is Area Decided Upon for Public Playground

To look into the possibilities of acquiring a community playground for Eagle Rock, the P.-T. A. has appointed a committee composed of Mrs. Sherrill B. Osborne, chairman, Mrs. Ada Boyce and Mrs. J. C. Reiter, presidents of the three local P.-T. A. organizations.

As this movement, if carried through to a successful finish, will necessitate the locating of 10 or 12 acres, it is impossible to locate the playground right in Eagle Rock, but a spot could be chosen which would be easily accessible to all. Owing to the number of children in Eagle Rock, it is quite essential that some kind of a public playground be established in this section before long. The playground committee will confer with the city playground commission to see just what can be provided for this district.

Teachers Arrange Surprise Luncheon for Supt. Harwood

A surprise luncheon was served by the Central school teachers, with former District Superintendent E. E. Harwood as the honor guest at the school today. Mr. Harwood is popular with students and teachers alike, who both regret his change of position to another locality.

SEEK UNIFORM RATE
[By Associated Press]

BOISE, Idaho, June 14.—United States Senator Frank Gooding of Idaho, is planning to stump the state this summer in the interests of organizing Idaho intermediate rate associations, according to a recent announcement by the senator here. Senator Gooding asserted his purpose was to form organizations to wage opposition to alleged discriminations practiced by railroads against Idaho shippers.

NO MORE P.-T. A. MEETINGS TILL FALL

Garden Party at Home of Mrs. A. G. Reily Closes Current Term

The Federated P.-T. A. has adjourned until fall. The final meeting, in the form of a garden party at the home of Mrs. A. G. Reily, 550 East Colorado, June 13, proved to be one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. A few matters of business were taken up, but the majority of the afternoon was spent in a social good time.

The children who were welcomed with their mothers romped and played games in the arbor and rose garden while their mothers enjoyed the musical program, and talked. Frances Baly played several difficult and beautiful piano selections, the piano being placed on the porch for the outdoor program. Mrs. W. S. Grey, playing the saxophone, accompanied by Mrs. Walz at the piano, gave a variety of numbers that were enthusiastically applauded.

Mrs. Reily then served her guests with delicious punch and home-made cake.

READING CIRCLE IS FORMED IN EAGLE ROCK

Will Meet Every Wednesday in Fall With Mrs. C. W. Young as Reader

Beginning in the fall, a reading circle, an independent organization sponsored by the P.-T. A., will meet every Wednesday morning. At the P. T.-A. Federation's final meeting, Mrs. E. C. Jones introduced Mrs. C. W. Young as reader for the circle.

The hour between 11 and 12 will be spent in magazine review. Each member will bring a lunch and the afternoon hour will be spent in more serious reading and study. Books dealing with child training and child welfare will be read.

Anyone interested will be welcomed into the circle.

HAVE YOU HEALTH? IF NOT, WHY NOT?

"Have you health? If not, why not?" This was, in effect, the question on which Miss Leila W. Hunt of the domestic science department of the State College of Washington talked over the radio at station KFAE recently, treating of diet in preventing disease.

"What is the most satisfactory type of diet?" said Miss Hunt. "First, a generous milk supply; second, some raw food each day; third, leafy vegetables, which aid in keeping the digestive tract clean." With these, she said, the rest of the food supply may safely be made up of cereals, meat, potatoes, etc.

Health, she said, was the basis of everything worth while in life, and many of the people who now find themselves in ill-health must go back to improper food habits in childhood and youth to find the cause of their present inability.

"We do not believe in fads; we believe in good sound sense as to foods," said Miss Hunt. "We hear jests about 'health as a disease,' but we know a good many people are thinking about health, and are going to find out if they really have it or not and if not why not?"

Believing that the greatest good to the next generation is going to result from educating the mothers and fathers to care for the children, born and unborn, so that physical defects will not be established, the college has organized a course in child care for the college Sixty were enrolled this semester. Men need such a course as much as women, but the educational program has not yet been developed that far.

SWEDEN PLANS TO SPEND $12,600,000 FOR RAILROAD

[By Associated Press]

STOCKHOLM, June 15.—The first coast to coast railroad electrification in the world, extending from Stockholm, on the Baltic Sea, to Gothemburg, on the North Sea, is heralded in the official request just made to the Swedish government by the state railway administration that it be empowered to begin immediately the expenditure of the 23,000,000 crowns which have already been appropriated toward this project.

C. E. PYLE URGES CONSERVATION OF REDWOOD

Cedric E. Pyle of the Glendale branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank today gave the following interesting statement relative to the usefulness of the Redwood and the necessity of conserving it:

"The redwoods are found nowhere in the world except in California. They are remarkable for their size, their age, and the majestic beauty of their forests. At no time of the year are their beauties so appreciated as during that period just beginning, the vacation period.

"The redwoods belong to the genus Sequoia, the oldest of living things, whose growth represents thousands of years. Only two species remain, the Sequoia Sempervirens (redwoods or literally meaning 'live forever') of the upper California coast, and the Sequoia Gigantea (big tree) of the Sierras.

"The big tree of the Sierras, because it is almost entirely within public parks and also because of not being a good commercial wood, is being quite well preserved. On the other hand, the redwoods, Sequoia Sempervirens, are almost entirely in private ownership and are being cut for the very valuable lumber that they yield. These commercial forests are principally located in Del Norte, Humboldt and Mendocino counties and, according to the 'save the redwoods league' are being depleted very rapidly.

"The commercial redwood grows straight and tall with clean trunks for 75 to 200 feet before branches begin and to a total height of 150 to 300 feet. The average growth per acre is 100 million feet.

"The commercial redwood belt contains approximately 1,500,000 acres, of which approximately one-third has been cut over. Only 5,000 acres are included in state parks where they are certain to be preserved, and include the Big Basin, the Muir Woods and a few private groves. The aim of the 'save the redwoods league' is to have at least 20,000 acres of primeval redwood forest dedicated as a national redwood park, and to encourage the reforestation of cutover lands.

"The league requests those who are interested in its purposes to give their support by joining the league, applying to Robert G. Sproul, treasurer save the redwoods league, library building, University of California, Berkeley. Mrs. Charles H. Toll and Mr. Chas. F. Stern represent Southern California in the council of the league.

"The redwood tree is a prolific seeder, but will not germinate unless there is plenty of light. It is this light-seeking feature of the trees which causes them to grow so rapidly in height at the sacrifice of girth of growth. The so-called second growth is suitable for lumber after approximately 50 years.

"The lumber of the redwood is in constant demand owing to its possession of qualities which can be claimed by no other woods. Some of the many uses are as follows: Storage tanks for water, chemical solutions, oil, etc., for beams and pergola work; for ceiling and moulding lumber; for window and door frames; for cigar box lumber; for chocolate and candy boxes; for store fixtures, clothing chests and for all finishing work; for incubators and ice cream cabinets because of the high insulating quality of the wood.

"The Pacific-Southwest is a heavy consumer of redwood, in addition to enjoying the possession of these beautiful trees, and it is hoped by the 'save the redwoods league' that the people of the Pacific-Southwest will always take a sufficient interest in the redwoods to insure the conservation of, and the most prudent utilization of this remarkable resource."

THE HUMBLER NEED

Yes, knowledge is a splendid thing,
And learning has its zest.
And wisdom has the gift to bring
Thoughts beautiful and blest.
We soar to heights, and dreams are ours
That come, who shall say whence?
But we need through the daily hours
A lot of common sense.

A little bit of common sense
Serves well in many a way,
It lightens clouds grown dark and dense,
It makes a brighter day.
It may have no degrees from schools,
Great honors it has not,
But it has many useful rules
That help a mighty lot.

When wisdom beats on cage and bars,
When learning rears its head
Above the dim and distant stars,
And knowledge has been spread
Upon the earth, in language hot,
And with a glow intense,
This true as well we need a lot
Of simple common sense.

For after all, we're common folk,
We've sunshine and we've rain,
And we bear all the common yoke
Of labor, love and pain;
And learning many a thought may give
Of how and why and whence,
But we need in this life we live
A lot of common sense.

EXCLUSIVE MODEL IS MILLINERY DEMAND

Marian Elizabeth Now Offers Many Exclusive Summer Models

The ha of distinction, which has no duplicate, is the hat offered at the Marian Elizabeth millinery shop in Jensen's Palace Grand Shops.

Beginning Saturday, some delightful exclusive models are to be offered, and the discriminating buyer will find that there are no two models alike. Miss Marian E. Shaffer designs all of these hats, and it is her special delight to create the extraordinary.

Mrs. Grace McCleery, who recently took over the management of the Marian Elizabeth, formerly acted as a professional hostess, and her experience in that line is a particular asset in the cosy surroundings at the Marian Elizabeth, where her cordial greeting forms an inducement to the shopper to stop and chat while making a choice.

The Marian Elizabeth will be open Saturday night, in order to give more shoppers an opportunity to take advantage of the special prices.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE IS NOW NECESSARY

American medical schools are being awakened to the necessity of including in their curricula adequate courses in preventive medicine, especially in pediatrics and obstetrics, according to Dr. Richard A. Bolt, medical director of the American Child Health association, of which Herbert Hoover is president.

To stimulate this preventive work, the American Child Health association is considering founding a series of fellowships and scholarships for physicians, much along the same lines as scholarships already offered to teachers in child health work.

Dr. Bolt will soon start on a personal tour of the Northwest and Pacific coast to investigate child health conditions at first hand. While in California he will attend the International Conference of Health Education and will preside at one of its sessions. He will also conduct courses in child welfare simultaneously at the summer schools of the University of California at Berkeley, and Stanford at Palo Alto.
